USE OF TOBACCO BY MINISTERS HIT IN BISHOP'S RULING

ASSEMBLY FUND DEBATE SPIRITED

Junaluska Proposal Referred to Budget Body;
Publishing House Anniversary Observed.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Routine work in the North Georgia Methodist conference, in session at Wesley Memorial church, was interrupted Friday by a brief spirited debate and a ruling by Bishop John M. Moore relative to the use of tobacco by undergraduates. The conference program for the day was featured by an hour's observance of the diamond anniversary of the Methodist Publishing house, located at Nashville, and an address by Dr. John W. Pierson, of Huntington, W. Va. The Epworth League anniversary, attended by several thousand young people, was the feature of the evening session, when Dr. W. A. Lambeth, formerly of Washington, D. C., spoke of the subject, "Modern Youth and Religion."

The session regarding the use of tobacco was provoked when the name of Rev. H. L. Gurley, of the Brookton charge, was called, and his application for admission into full connection was considered.

A question asked of all applicants for full connection is whether or not they will pledge to abstain from the use of tobacco. When this phase of Mr. Gurley's application was reached, the conference was advised that he used tobacco upon the recommendation of his physician.

This stimulated a hearty laugh throughout the conference room, and many calls were made for the young minister get another doctor.

Arrangement Disapproved.
Bishop John M. Moore ruled that the young man be admitted into full connection on the basis of such an arrangement. The bishop declared his intention to abide by the law, enacted in 1914, which stipulated that all men admitted into full connection therefrom should pledge their total abstinence from tobacco. And he said the means for a day, not for a year, but always.

The bishop suggested that the case of Mr. Gurley be continued until today, when final disposition will be made of it.

Spirited debate was indulged in by the conference Friday, when Dr. R. L. Russell, of the Atlanta David Hill church, offered a resolution that this conference raise this coming year $1,000 for the Junaluska assembly near Asheville.

Compromise Effected.
A compromise was effected, when it was agreed that the Junaluska proposal be referred to the budget commission. The conference, however, did approve the appointment of a committee of seven to maintain contact with the Junaluska trustees.

Major Milton J. Daniel, of Griffin, read the report of the board of finance, showing that the sum of $32,186 had been given the superannuated preachers of the conference, and the widows and orphans of deceased preachers. Of the sum named, $7

Gazaway Guilty

Brice M. Gazaway, who was given twelve to fifteen years Friday in superior court for voluntary manslaughter in the death of W. A. Stewart, Jr.

BRICE M. GAZAWAY IS FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Alleged Slayer of W. A. Stewart, Jr., Must Serve 12 to 15 Years; New Trial Sought.

Brice M. Gazaway, whose liberty under bond in a murder case was claimed by his rearrest and an indictment on robbery charges, Friday afternoon was convicted of voluntary manslaughter and was sentenced by Judge G. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, to serve from 12 to 15 years. Stewart Foster, a witness who testified as to the death of Gazaway's alleged victim, W. A. Stewart, Jr., was ordered locked up in jail and held for $1,000 bond on a perjury charge pending grand jury action.

The jury received the case against Gazaway at 1:35 o'clock Friday afternoon following a demand by Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson for the death penalty, and returned its verdict at 4:15 o'clock. Attorney George G. Finch, of defense counsel, announced that a motion for a new trial will be filed.

Stewart's body was found in Grant park following an alleged altercation at a Pryor road barbecue stand operated by Foster and Fletcher Flowers, both of whom testified in the trial.

State charged that Stewart was beaten to death before his body was left in the park, and that Mrs. Louis McElroy, a member of the party at the barbecue stand, had wet her handkerchief in the lake and wiped off the doorknobs of the car to eliminate fingerprints. Hudson advanced the theory in his argument that Stewart was killed in the park and then robbed.

Gazaway, in his statement to the jury, contended that he struck Stewart with his fist on his third advance

DO-X Lands on Sea and Runs Over 50 Miles to Port—Will Resume Flight Today.

BY THOMAS T. TOPPING.

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The largest flying boat in the world, the German DO-X, bobbed to night on a calm sea between the fortified island of Re and the city of La Rochelle, interrupted after a trying day in which she left England for Bordeaux on another phase of her projected flight to the United States.

Late tonight the huge ship threw out anchor after traveling on the surface along the coast line for 50 or more miles. There she awaited the coming of daylight.

Just after making the French coast en route from England one of the 12 engines began to give trouble and lost speed.

She needed two hours to fly from Cherbourg to Ushant and 20 minutes from there to Douarnenez.

The DO-X held her course, however, until she reached Les Barges, a small coastal point near Sables d'Olonne. By that time four motors were giving trouble. It was 5:50 p. m., night was falling fast, and a dense sea mist, dispelled by the bright winter sun, was again creeping over the waters.

At her speed then, the DO-X could not hope to reach Bordeaux until late at night and the flight would have been attended by a certain risk in the darkness and fog. The captain decided to taxi along the coast for a way, since the ship could make a respectable speed on the surface.

French authorities had arranged for a gasoline and oil stop at the small port of St. Nazaire de Charente, four miles west of Rochefort, and the captain decided to head for that point. Confusion of the names of that little town with the great port of St. Nazaire at the mouth of the Loire further north was responsible for a report that the DO-X had landed at the latter place.

The big plane came down just off Les Barges like a seagull, jockeying gracefully over the calm sea. Thereafter she skimmed down the coast to her present position. The drone of her engines was heard by people ashore but her lights were invisible through the mist and darkness.

The shelter of the island, where French convicts spend their last night in France before being transported to the penal settlements off the South American coast, the DO-X was unable to ride out the night, cradled gently by the swells.

It is understood that in the morning the flying boat will be towed to St. Nazaire de Charente and there take on fuel and possibly adjust the crippled engines.

Argument by Attorney Mark Bolding for Carpenter on the demurrer was to the effect that his client had committed no crime even if he had paid Taylor money, which the defense contended that he had done.

The indictment against Carpenter charged that he paid Taylor $500 from Mike Ellman, of Klein & Ellman, and paid Taylor a part of it in connection with a license for the auction jewelry business of Klein & Ellman.

Carpenter is under another indictment charging him with defrauding the city in the same alleged transaction. He is represented by Attorney Bolding and by Attorneys Hugh Howell and Jo Ewing.

Georgia Leaders Urge Creation of State Tax Commission

Members of the board of directors of the Georgia Tax Revision Association who Friday urged prompt payment of the state's $5,500,000 deficit and urged adoption of an amendment providing for the classification of property for taxation and legislation creating a state tax commission. Standing, reading left to right, are J. Clay Murphy, of Macon; Norman Elsas, Atlanta; R. Fitzpatrick, Warrenton, Hatton Lowjoy, LaGrange; H. H. Swift, Columbus; Lee S. Trimble, Augusta; Ronald Ranson, Atlanta. Middle row, left to right, Josiah Flournoy, Columbus; J. H. Hosch, Gainesville; L. D. Hand, Pelham; Robert Gregg, Atlanta; William Murphy, Savannah; Howard Coffin, Sea Island Beach; T. M. Cunningham, Savannah; J. S. Peters, Atlanta; W. B. McKinstry, Savannah; Colonel F. J. Paxon, Atlanta; C. P. Rowland, T. K. Glenn, Atlanta. Front row, P. S. Arkwright, George J. Yundt, J. B. Wright, Cairo; Judge Orville A. Park, special counsel, Macon; Miller S. Bell, president, Milledgeville; Ernest Camp, secretary, Monroe, and Cator Woolford, Atlanta.

CARPENTER TRIAL DELAYED, PENDING DEMURRER RULING

Writ, Declaring License Tax Unconstitutional, Is Taken Under Advice
by Judge Pomeroy.

The demurrer filed by Councilman W. Paul Carpenter, of the ninth ward, to an indictment charging him with bribing former City Clerk Walter G. Taylor in an auction jewelry license matter was taken under advisement Friday afternoon by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court. A decision will be handed down today or Monday.

Meanwhile, pending action by Judge Pomeroy on the demurrer, all witnesses were exused until Tuesday morning. The cases of L. L. Wallis, former superintendent of city parks; Frank Callaway, former councilman; W. A. Adeock, charged with embezzlement; Councilman J. Allen Couch, and J. R. Leach and J. E. Robinson, the latter two charged with simple larceny, have been retained on Judge Pomeroy's calendar, but whether they will be tried by Judge Pomeroy after the disposition of the Carpenter matter or transferred to another court has not been determined definitely, it was said.

Argument by Attorney Mark Bolding for Carpenter on the demurrer was to the effect that his client had committed no crime even if he had paid Taylor money, which the defense contended that he had done.

The indictment against Carpenter charged that he paid Taylor $500 from Mike Ellman, of Klein & Ellman, and paid Taylor a part of it in connection with a license for the auction jewelry business of Klein & Ellman.

Political Scientists Attack Business Policies of Hoover

BY WILLIAM O. KEY, JR.

Bitterly assailing the republican administration for what speakers characterized as betrayal of every campaign promise, the third annual joint session of the Southern Political Science Association and the Southern Economics conference Friday night directed a salvo of scathing denunciation at President Hoover and his record in office. The conference is being held at the Ansley hotel.

Striking a keynote of indictment in which he laid to the threshold of the major political party unqualified blame for the stock market crash of 1929 and the ensuing quasi-panic condition of the nation, Professor Irbey R. Hudson, of Vanderbilt University, president of the Political Science Association, drew an ironic picture of the chief executive as an "efficiency engineer" and "chief agent of the businessman."

"Where is there a program offered us?" demanded the speaker, speaking of prospect for economic improvement.

$123,322 RAISED IN CHEST DRIVE TO START TODAY

Leaders Confident Goal of $398,550 Will Be Passed.

With the Community Chest subscription total as reported Friday more than doubling the initial report, Atlanta was regarded by leaders of the campaign to be well on its way toward the $398,550 quota. Up to noon Friday, when the several hundred chest workers who are canvassing the city for the sake of needy and crippled, gathered at the Ansley hotel for the second campaign report luncheon, $123,322.71 had been raised, of which $64,112 was reported Friday.

Robert Strickland, Jr., vice president of the First National bank, delivered the principal address at the second day's luncheon. Atlanta's best asset, he stated, is this spirit that can bring so large a gathering out on a day like Friday.

Mr. Strickland expressed confidence that the campaign would go over the top with Community Chest campaign workers putting the amount of enthusiasm into the drive that has been displayed thus far. "Atlanta realizes that just now, even though they may be getting near the bottom of the purse, is the time when they must give more than ever before to those who have passed far below the bottom of the purse."

Mr. Strickland was preceded by Eugene R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, who made a brief address.

PROBE OF 'REDS' TO START TODAY

Congressional Committee Will Investigate Communism in Georgia.

A congressional investigation into alleged communistic activities in Georgia is to be conducted here today, under direction of Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, chairman of a special house committee probing "red" activities.

The inquiry is to be held in the federal district court building beginning at 10 o'clock. Others on the committee are Representatives Nelson, of Maine, and Bachman, of West Virginia, republicans, and Representatives Eslick, of Mississippi, and Hall, of Tennessee, democrats.

According to advance announcements the committee plans to gather from all available sources information tending to link activities of the communists in this section with the soviet government. Among those expected to assist the committee at its hearing here are Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, John H. Hudson and J. Walter LeCraw, two of his assistants; J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers Association; B. S. Barker, executive secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and a number of Atlanta policemen who have encountered alleged reds in their respective tours of duty.

Mr. Hudson, who is directing plans for the prosecution of four alleged communists under indictment here for disseminating red propaganda, is expected to be one of the strongest witnesses. The four alleged communists, Joe Carr, M. H. Powers, Mary Dalton and Ann Burack, are free under bond pending trial on the indictments, which compose a capital offense.

The Fish committee is expected to return to Washington immediately after today's inquiry. It has completed a tour of the south, having conducted an inquiry at Birmingham Friday.

LUTZ SUGGESTIONS ADOPTED IN PART AT FIRST MEETING

Resolutions Ask Liquidation of Obligations "To the Last Dollar," Regardless of Technicalities.

BUDGET SYSTEM FOR STATE ASKED

Board Favors Classification of Property for Taxation and Recasting of Business Tax Scale.

Payment of the state's $5,500,000 debt, "as promptly as possible, regardless of all technicalities," was urged in resolutions passed Friday at the first meeting of the board of directors of the Georgia Tax Revision Association, the known personnel of which includes a group of taxpayers who will bear the lion's share of the state deficit.

Judge Orville A. Park, of Macon, special counsel for the association, was authorized to draft a resolution, pledging the association to support and assist in carrying forward any plans adopted by the state government for the "liquidation of the last dollar of these obligations."

In another resolution the association board urged the adoption of an amendment to the constitution authorizing the classification of property for taxation, a system of revenue raising declared to have been adopted in most of the states of the Union already. The directors also favored the recasting of the system of business taxes so as to relieve what its officials described as "the present inequalities and injustices, and correlate the business and privilege tax with the property and income taxes."

Budget System Favored.
Still another resolution was adopted favoring the adoption of an executive budget system under which all revenues for the state would be apportioned for all state purposes. Approval was given, at the same time, to the creation of a state tax commission, with members to be appointed by the governor for long terms, the commission to have charge of all revenues of the state and the complete administration of the tax system.

Touching upon this recommendation, a statement outlining the developments at the four-hour session of the board, held at the Atlanta Athletic Club, explained that "the directors also favored a tax on net incomes, but recommended that the state adopt its own tax law rather than base its tax on the federal tax and that the law be so modified as to relieve the present discrimination against Georgia corporations."

Every one of the recommendations approved by the tax revision association's board, with the exception of the one to classify property, was promised in the report of its meeting—that to pay off the state debt at the earliest possible date.

THREE GEORGIA TEAMS INVADE FOREIGN SOIL

There are three football games scheduled for Saturday afternoon that will hold the interest of all Atlanta and the state. Georgia Tech, Georgia and Oglethorpe are away to do battle on foreign territory.

The Constitution will be there with the "home" warriors to give its readers the usual expert coverage of the games.

ED DANFORTH, sports editor, will witness Tech's battle with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

RALPH McGILL accompanied Georgia to New Orleans for the Bulldogs' big game with Tulane, last year's conference champions.

A special correspondent will report the meeting of Oglethorpe with the strong Villa Nova eleven at Philadelphia.

GRANTLAND RICE will picture for you in his own style the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton.

ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press sports editor, Brian Bell and other writers for that service will report various important games over the nation.

BUDGETARY ARMS CUT WINS VOTE AT GENEVA

Gibson Absent as U. S. Direct Limitation Plan Dies.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 14.—(P)—The preparatory disarmament commission after three days of debate today adopted the British proposal which sets forth that a majority of the commission associates itself with the principle of land war limitation by the budgetary method.

The vote was 16 to 3, with six abstentions, including the United States, which through its representative, Hugh S. Gibson, had previously declared the plan unacceptable. Ambassador Gibson today explained he was obliged to abstain from voting as he would have preferred the commission to have first placed itself on record as to whether there really was a majority in favor of budget limitation.

The British resolution, as presented by Viscount Cecil, read:

"A majority of the commission associates itself with the principle of limitation by budgetary methods of land war material while recognizing that certain members would prefer the direct method by specific enumeration and that certain members would desire to see some combination of the two methods."

The next matter before the commission is consideration of the French proposal that the budgetary method be placed in the hands of a group of experts for study.

NYE REQUESTS DATA ON ALABAMA VOTING*Secretary of State Asked for Material on Primary, Election.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 14.—(P)—Secretary of State John Brandon today received a request from Senator Gerald P. Nye, of the senatorial campaign investigating committee, requesting the official canvass of the general elections last November 4 and the democratic primary in Alabama August 12.

No reference was made in the letter to the request of Senator J. Thomas Heflin that the election in Alabama, in which he was defeated by John H. Bankhead, be investigated by the committee. Heflin was defeated by more than 50,000 votes, and in requesting the investigation in Alabama charged he was defeated through "fraud and corruption."

The secretary of state advised Nye that the official canvass of the general election will be made Monday and that the official count will be forwarded to him at that time.

Nye was referred to E. W. Pettus, of Selma, chairman of the state democratic committee, to whom the official county totals are certified by county committee chairmen, in connection with the request for the official primary vote.

BUILD MORE ROADS, HARRIS URGES U. S.*Unmatched Funds Sought to Lessen Unemployment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(Special)—Additional federal expenditures for the expansion of the nation's highway construction program, minus the requirement that the funds be matched by the various states, was urged today by Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, as an aid to the current unemployment problem.

Senator Harris, who has just returned to his office here after a visit to the state, announced that he would support legislation at the forthcoming session making immediate appropriations for further highway work.

"Congress could do nothing better at the present time to relieve unemployment," he said, "than to authorize an expansion of the federal highway program. A substantial fund appropriated for this purpose, without the existing policy of requiring the states to match the appropriations dollar for dollar before they can be used, would have a far reaching effect, providing jobs for the unemployed in every state of the union."

While unwilling to make an estimate just yet of the extent of the funds he believes should be appropriated, the Georgia senator said he was looking into the matter and might have a definite proposal to submit later.

Senator Harris also served notice today of his intention to press for a renewal of the fund granted by congress in the last two sessions for use in making loans to farmers for the purchase of food, fertilizers and seed in their spring crop operations.

President Hoover recently announced that he will approve such legislation having application to the drought-stricken areas of the country, but the Georgia senator said he would insist that the measure embrace other sections as well, particularly the southeastern states, which were not so hard hit by shortage of rainfall during the summer but where the fund has served an urgent need.

Commenting on the recent statement by seven democratic chiefs pledging their co-operation to the republican administration in aiding in the restoration of normal economic conditions throughout the country, the Georgia senator said that while he was in full sympathy with the tenor of the pledge he regarded it as carrying an obligation no less on the part of the republicans to co-operate in the passage of sound legislative matters that may be proposed by democrats.

Low Card Cutter Files Protest of Election

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Nov. 14.—(P)—Sheriff E. L. Davis, republican, was tied for re-election by A. M. Webb, democrat, in last week's election.

Election officials today offered a deck of cards to decide the winner—high man in the cut to take the office.

Webb was high and was given the certificate of office. Davis soon after announced he would file a contest.

U. S. FACES DEFICIT, IS HOOVER OPINION*President Sees No Cause for Alarm in Situation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(P)—Hopes for continuation of the lower income tax rates for another year lessened today as President Hoover noted a prospective slight treasury deficit and Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, announced opposition to a renewal of the emergency reduction.

The president saw no alarm in the prospective deficit facing the government at the close of this fiscal year and he did not close the door against another tax cut, but his gloom over the financial outlook, coupled with the attitude of Senator Smoot, was regarded at the capitol as significant.

Unless congress takes affirmative action at the short session beginning next month to continue the reduced tax rates put into effect a year ago as an emergency measure, the permanent and higher scale of rates enacted two years ago goes back into effect for income taxes to be paid next year.

What course congress pursues toward the tax schedules is dependent entirely on the recommendation of the administration. Last summer, after treasury experts had predicted small chance for a continuation of the lower tax rates, President Hoover and

BOND FUND OUTLAY GIVEN APPROVAL

Approval of $16,800 worth of improvements to be financed from funds of the 1926 bond issue was given Friday afternoon by the Atlanta borough bond commission. The papers will go to council Monday for sanction.

Following are the items involved: Seven thousand five hundred dollars for repair of existing trunk sewers; $3,500 for completion and bringing up-to-date the property line maps of Atlanta borough; $2,775 for laying six-inch water mains in Reeder circle, Cumberland road and Gore drive from North Highland avenue to the city limits; $1,035 for laying six-inch mains in Glendale terrace 600 feet from the present terminus of the existing main, and in Seventh street, 708 feet from existing main; $1,000 for construction of the Avery lane culvert and $480 for laying a six-inch main in Twelfth street from Spring to Williams streets.

Lodge Bombed.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 14.—(P)—A bomb exploded in the premises of the great national Masonic lodge in the center of the city today. A second bomb failed to explode.

Davison - Paxon Toy Department Will Open Today

A gay harbinger of Christmas for Atlanta kiddies will be the formal opening Saturday morning at 9 o'clock of "Playtown," Davison-Paxon's big Christmas department located in the basement of the store.

Coincident with the opening of the department it was announced that "Playtown" and the entire basement will be open for business until 9:30 o'clock Saturday night in order to make it convenient for Atlanta children and their parents to visit it some time during the day or night.

Davison-Paxon's officials state that this year "Playtown" will be bigger and more interesting than in previous years. A setting of particular interest to children has been provided, gaily colored animals and characters from Mother Goose on the walls surrounding the department with an atmosphere of childish romance and legend.

In addition the tremendous stock of toys will include a great number of novel playthings designed not only to entertain but to educate children of various ages. Iris Lee, Davison-Paxon's personal shopper, has carefully studied the toys that will aid the mental development of children of certain ages, and the department will recommend certain toys that are ideally suited for each child.

Gas Station Robbed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 14.—(P)—Two unmasked bandits held up the filling station of D. C. Garvin here shortly before noon today, assaulted Garvin and escaped with the contents of his purse, about $9 in cash.

4 NEGRO SLAYERS DIE IN ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 14.—(P)—Four negroes were electrocuted at the state penitentiary early today for two holdup murders committed last year.

They were James Turnage and George Washington convicted of killing W. H. Roberts, Little Rock filling station operator, and Eddie Long and Willie Joe Davis convicted of fatally wounding John Weed North, Little Rock grocery store proprietor and city alderman.

A fifth negro, Mack Cleveland, sentenced to die with the others today for the killing of two negro children in Columbia county, occupied an upstairs cell in the deathhouse following a stay of execution granted yesterday by Governor Harvey Parnell for a sanity test.

PRESENTING THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity.

In both the chassis and body of this new six-cylinder Chevrolet you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

For—without departing from the basic features which have won the enthusiastic approval of over 2,000,000 buyers—Chevrolet has produced a six-cylinder car which represents an entirely new standard of quality, value and refinement in the low-price field.

Your first impression of the new Chevrolet will be one of striking fleetness, grace and beauty. The car is longer, lower and modernly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood lines sweep back unbroken to blend gracefully into the new Fisher bodies. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six!

Not only are the bodies roomier and more comfortable, but as you study them you will discover many gratifying new features and pleasing refinements—many examples of that painstaking attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is a better automobile. The wheelbase is longer. The frame is stronger. The steering is easier. The clutch is more durable. There is a smoother, quieter, easier shifting transmission. In fact, wherever finer materials and more advanced design could add to Chevrolet quality or increase Chevrolet's traditional economy of ownership—improvement has been made. See the new Chevrolet Six—and you will agree that here is the Great American Value!

4 DEAD, MANY INJURED
IN MADRID LABOR RIOTSMounted Police Charge
Crowd With Sabers Swinging Freely.

MADRID, Nov. 14.—(AP)—With a suddenness which left the city aghast, a series of labor riots exploded in the center of the business section today and within half an hour four men had been killed, a dozen seriously wounded and 50 others injured.

Thousands of workmen poured into the streets, augmenting a crowd which had gathered for funeral services for four workers who perished yesterday in a building collapse. The demonstration began as a protest against the erection of flimsy buildings which endangered the lives of workmen, but it developed quickly into a vicious battle.

Mounted police charged the crowd as the cry, "Viva revolution," was raised, and the rioters threw stones at the officers. Sabers were swung freely. Merchants hastened to raise iron shutters and lock their doors as the mob stoned shops and offices.

Then, as quickly as it had begun, the fight was over and the rioters were routed.

The trouble came just as the city had settled into contemplation of more peaceful days to come, following the king's endorsement two days ago of plans for the first parliamentary elections Spain has had in seven years. When the excitement had subsided the funeral services which had preceded the riot were continued. Police guards were established at the cemetery.

Strong patrols were kept in the streets although the authorities did not expect a recurrence of the disorders.

FORMER MINISTER TO PARAGUAY DIES

ST. MARYS, Ohio, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Daniel E. Mooney, 65, United States minister to Paraguay during the administration of President Wilson, died here last night.

TEXTILE MANUFACTURER
PASSES IN MASSACHUSETTS

STANTON, Mass., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Colonel Peter H. Carr, textile and cotton waste manufacturer, died at his home today. His business connections included Hoffman-Corr Company, Philadelphia; East Greenwich Bleachery, East Greenwich, R. I., and local textile and cotton waste concerns.

CANADIAN LEGISLATIVE
LEADER DIES AT AGE OF 67

QUEBEC, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Adelard Turgeon, speaker of the Quebec legislative council, died today at the age of 67. He had been ill only a few days.

CHAUTAUQUA INSTITUTE
DIRECTOR SUCCEUMS

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Luther H. Cary, 63, for many years director of the Chautauqua institute literary and scientific circle, died at his home here today. He had been ill for about a year.

Mr. Cary was a graduate of Princeton University where he was prominent in student athletics. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

PROFESSOR-AUTHOR
DIES AT WORCESTER HOME

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Dr. Alfred Lewis Pines Dennis, author and professor of international relations at Clark University since 1923, died this morning at his home at the Standish apartments here.

Professor Dennis was born May 21, 1874, in Beirut, Syria, while his parents were temporarily abroad.

BAY STATE GIRL
FEARED KIDNAPED

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Police of Massachusetts today sought Margaret Martell, 14-year-old Belmont Junior high school girl, and her kidnaper. Margaret was driven away in an automobile after her brother, Harold, 12, had been persuaded to leave the machine in which they had both been given a ride.

The kidnaping occurred late yesterday, but was not reported by the boy until late last night. An alarm was immediately broadcast.

The brother and sister played hooker from school yesterday to hitchhike to Boston.

Harold told his parents that a motorist drove them through Newton, to Allston, where he was stopped at a filling station. At Harvard Square, Cambridge, he said, he was given 50 cents and told to go home.

The stranger told him "Your sister and I are going to the movies."

At the Allston filling station police learned that the kidnaping was about 20 years old and well dressed. He had considerable money with him.

RAIL UNIONS SUGGEST MONTH OF 26 DAYS

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A suggestion from the president of the Railroad Security Owners' organization that employees reduce their working time to 26 days a month in order to provide more jobs was taken under advisement today by the five leading railway brotherhoods.

A telegram from Milton W. Harrison, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad and Public Utility Securities, was read to the assembled union delegates and referred to the subcommittee which is considering means of alleviating unemployment among railroad men.

Harrison called attention to the necessity of maintaining the financial integrity of the carriers and said the six-hour day, which had been suggested, would be impracticable and untenable if it included provisions for eight-hour compensation or shortening of the straight day and lengthening of the overtime period.

"LOAN SHARK" STATUTE
UPHELD IN TENNESSEE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Tennessee's anti loan and regulating money lenders was declared constitutional today by Circuit Judges Phil Wallace and Tom Harsh, sitting jointly, and 35 individual lenders were ordered to go to trial.

The lenders were accused of disregarding requirements that they qualify before the state banking department and of ignoring other restrictions.

The cases will be tried as soon as possible, state attorneys said.

RECKLESSLY DRIVING
BACKWARD NETS FINE

HORACE PRICE, a negro, appeared before Recorder Murphy M. Holloway Friday to answer to a charge of recklessly driving backwards.

Patrolman S. C. Tuck, who arrested Price, testified the negro and his truck parked on Broad street near Alabama and started to leave the parking spot driving recklessly backward at a "furious rate of speed."

The recorder fined the negro $10, but suspended sentence.

POSTAL LEASES PROBE CONTINUES

Broker Tells of Submitting Lowest Bid But Failing of Award.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The senate committee investigating alleged irregularities in postoffice leases expects to make more tangible disclosure when it reaches St. Paul next Monday, its chairman, Senator John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, said tonight.

"But," he added, "we'll really break it wide open when we get back to Washington."

The senator would not say what revelations the inquirers expect from their inquiry, which ended its Chicago phase tonight after a day which saw two mysteries injected into the hearing by Jacob Kulp, Chicago investment broker.

First of the mysteries was the unidentified man who, Kulp testified, had come to him with the warning that he was "going to get into trouble over the St. Paul (commercial substitution) lease," and offering to square things "for a consideration."

Second was the letter which, Kulp related, had been written to him by a person whose name he did not reveal, stating that Kulp was "in a hole" in connection with his financing of the Quincy sub-station in Chicago.

Part of the day was devoted to questioning of Kulp in regard to a proposed, but never built, sub-station in New York city over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets.

He told of learning from Dr. Hubert Work, then postmaster-general, that a contract for the building had been awarded to a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania railroad, the deal involving $24,000,000 over a 20-year lease. Later, Kulp said, bids were reopened and he and several others submitted bids, Kulp's being low at $19,245,000.

He had understood, Kulp testified, that the Pennsylvania subsidiary was to turn over the land to the low bidder for $2,000,000.

"But," Kulp added, "we never got the land. The Pennsylvania kept us like a cat keeps a mouse. It was always tomorrow and the next day."

Visiting Pastors To Occupy Local Pulpits Sunday

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Atlanta churches Sunday will have opportunity of hearing many of the Methodist pastors attending the annual conference session. The list of preaching appointments for the visiting ministers is given here with the hour indicated when they will speak.

Should a minister be selected for both morning and evening services, the names are given in the order they are expected to preach. When only one name is given, it is understood that it is for the morning service, except where otherwise specified.

WILKINS IS FREED; WILL ASK PENSION

On the heels of acquittal Friday morning of Dr. John G. Wilkins, suspended city physician, on 14 extortion counts in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of Fulton superior court, Dr. Wilkins, 42, is expected to receive a statement declaring that exoneration of Wilkins by the jury ought to clear the way for his retirement on a pension.

Wilkins' pension application is "in the status quo" pending a jury trial of a petition for mandamus to compel the city pension board to grant him retirement on a pension.

Although Dr. Wilkins still is under indictment in federal court on narcotic law charges, his exoneration of the extortion charges in superior court ought to remove the bar from his getting a pension, Ethridge said.

In a statement expressing his happiness over the verdict, Dr. Wilkins charged that testimony of women who claimed they had paid him money for treatment was a "frame-up." "Those witnesses swore to absolute lies," Wilkins said. "I knew I would obtain vindication, and I am happy at the result."

The verdict was returned Friday morning after the jury was out all night. Wilkins was represented by Attorney William Bentley and Mr. Ethridge.

Dr. Wilkins held a conference Friday afternoon with Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, but announced after that session that his plans were immature.

"I have not yet decided just what course of action I shall attempt to pursue," he said. "Everything is unsettled. I do not know whether I shall ask to be reinstated as a city physician, but in any event I think I am entitled to my pension if I elect to take it."

Long Delay Seen in Start On New Atlanta Postoffice

Officials Begin Lengthy Task of Clearing Away Technicalities Involving Purchase of Property.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Possibility of any immediate start on construction of Atlanta's new $3,000,000 postoffice dimmed Friday as United States officials here and in Washington began what they described as a thorough and probably lengthy clearing away of technicalities involved in the made by which the government agreed to accept property on Forsyth, Hunter and Spring streets for $880,000.

At the same time, officials engaged here in the work of closing the trade along lines specified by the government ventured the feeling that in spite of a laborious task ahead of them the complications would be moved and that no consideration of a new site would be necessary.

This hope, however, they admit, hinges on certain engineering problems involved in the construction of a tunnel which the government will require for the operation of electric trucks between the postoffice and the transfer point at the terminal station. Not regarded as an insurmountable obstacle, it presents difficult engineering tasks, officials explained, and seriously affects a considerable number of property rights.

Among the more recent difficulties arising in the postoffice construction program is understood to be lease rights held by several firms and individuals from owners of property embraced in the trade which the government closed, tentatively, several weeks ago. In some instances, it was said at the Federal building Friday, the lease is only a question of time, but in others it is only a question of time and money.

The report of the president showed that 108 students are working their way through school, wholly or in part, by working contracts of farming, maintenance of buildings and work in the dining halls. There are 19 ministerial students, 32 student workers, and 42 children of ministers listed at the registrar's office, it was shown. The institution is operated by the North Georgia Methodist conference.

Charles Reid, of Atlanta, is secretary of the board of trustees while W. T. Hamby, of Decatur, is president of the board.

YOUNG HARRIS HEAD TELLS OF ACTIVITIES

A report of activities at Young Harris College as made to the board of trustees in session at the Henry Grady hotel Friday night by President Jack Lane, showed the largest enrollment in the college department in the history of the school.

BELGIAN PREMIER WILL RECONSIDER

BRUSSELS, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Premier Henri Jaspar, who on Tuesday submitted the resignation of his cabinet because of disagreement in the use of the French and Flemish languages in the University of Ghent, will remain in office for the present.

This was decided tonight when the premier was the guest of King Albert in Laken palace, the monarch refusing to accept the resignation.

The two parliamentary chambers will assemble Tuesday.

RIDING THE CIRCUIT AT THE METHODIST CONFERENCE

By Thos. M. Elliott

That Mr. Weather Man has been most unkind to the conference hosts gathering in Atlanta this week. Not an hour since conference started but he has been all wet, and we don't mean maybe. He evidently is laboring under the impression that those methodists like sprinkling, and he is striving to please. But Mr. Weather Man, you got us down all wrong. Methodists are not cranks about any kind of water baptism. Water baptism is considered of very minor importance.

Thomas K. Glenn, of Atlanta, did a beautiful thing for a country church some weeks ago. In the Elberton district, Presiding Elder Edmondson and Pastor Griffith were undertaking to revive an abandoned church, Antioch by name. They had succeeded, and the new congregation were working in repairing the church building. Just at that juncture Mr. Glenn determined to pay a visit to the grave of his grandfather in the Antioch cemetery. Observing the workmen, and learning the story, he directed that the work be completed and the bill for the whole amount sent to him.

Rev. H. L. Edmondson, completing his fourth and final year as presiding elder in the Elberton district, has strenuously promoted revivals throughout the quadrennium. He says that, during the four years, 1,400 professions of religious faith have been made in the district, and the net increase in membership is 900. All pastors' salaries have been increased, and practically paid. Five abandoned churches have been reclaimed, reorganized and are now in a thriving condition.

One of the young ministers applying for admission into the conference is a trial is Rev. Louis Hucksby. His career is a story of triumph. He was a Stockbridge charge was received into the conference on trial just 24 years ago. Upon his return home, the young man now seeking admission was the second day of December. The parents consecrated him then and there to the service of God. His admission on trial today marks the culmination of that home service in the Methodist parsonage 24 years ago.

HAMAGUCHI GIVEN RECOVERY CHANCE

TOKYO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Critically wounded early today by a supposedly demented or misguided patriot, Premier Hamaguchi tonight was thought to have a good chance for life if blood poisoning did not develop.

Physicians said it soon could be determined whether peritonitis would result from a bullet which pierced the abdomen and remained in the left thigh. Stoically bearing the pain of removal by surgery of a small portion of pierced intestine, the premier, who is 60, and bears the nation's fond title of "Warrior for Peace," made light of his injury and inquired about the welfare of a sick friend.

During the day the premier received three blood transfusions. Meanwhile, the police closely questioned Tomoe Sagaya, 23-year-old member of the Nikomura, or "Love of Country Association," endeavoring to learn the motive of the attempted assassination at the Central railway station.

With a single shot Sagaya, who stood only six feet away, struck down the premier and was seized by police before he could fire again.

Sagaya was hustled to a police station. He was kept secluded and the motive for his act could not be learned.

The bullet remained imbedded in the patient's thigh, surgeons believing it was too dangerous to attempt removal immediately.

Madame Hamaguchi and their daughter, Fujiko, decided to stay in the hospital until the crisis was past. Asked whether his son, Takekichi, should be summoned from New York, where he is employed in a bank, Hamaguchi replied "No, he has his work to do."

The political situation was undisturbed. It was rumored one of the cabinet members, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, minister of foreign affairs, would become premier temporarily, if necessary.

SHOALS MAY BRING SPECIAL SESSION

Differences Over Norris Measure May Force Extra Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Differences between President Hoover and some of his republican leaders in the senate over the Norris measure for government operation of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant remained to be settled tonight before the threat of an extra session of congress next spring is dissipated.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant republican leader, is standing firm for the government operation bill which is in conflict with the house measure for private operation. McNary is chairman of the conference on this legislation.

A compromise between the senate and house is being sought. Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, author of the senate's government operation measure, already has offered a compromise whereby the power plant at Muscle Shoals would be under government operation and control and the nitrate plant available to private lease. The house conference so far have refused this.

Aside from the Muscle Shoals contest which will be one of the first propositions confronting the session, the legislative program is taking shape rapidly. It is a program which both republican and democratic leaders believe can be disposed of within the three months of the session.

Expansion of the public buildings program and possibly of the road construction work as a means of aiding unemployment has first place on the tentative calendar. Appropriation of funds for seed and fertilizer loans to the farmers in the drought-stricken areas gets second attention. Enactment of the vital appropriation bills has precedence at all times.

While the republican independents led by Senator Borah, of Idaho, are demanding additional farm relief legislation, it appears unlikely that the administration will sanction such a move. Mr. Hoover is on record against the export debenture and the conservation fee principles which are sponsored by the democrats and the independents.

Prohibition seems destined for considerable talk but there is no sentiment now apparent for seeking immediate change in the dry law. The prospective report of the law enforcement commission about the first of the year is expected to open the flood gates of oratory, at least.

During the day the premier received three blood transfusions. Meanwhile, the police closely questioned Tomoe Sagaya, 23-year-old member of the Nikomura, or "Love of Country Association," endeavoring to learn the motive of the attempted assassination at the Central railway station.

THE DEFICIENCY DEBTS.

The opinion rendered by Attorney-General Napier to Governor Hardman that the debts resulting from the failure of revenues to pay the legislative appropriations are not legally binding upon the state is undoubtedly a correct one.

There is no provision in the constitution for such a condition to be produced, or for the legislature to create such a state liability. On the contrary, all the intents of the constitution are against any such liability.

It is expressly stated that "no debt shall be contracted by or on behalf of the state except to supply such temporary deficit as may exist in the treasury in any year from necessary delay in collecting the taxes of that year," and then only to the amount of $500,000. It is further provided that "the bonded debt of the state shall never be increased, except to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the state in time of war." So no money can be raised by bonds to cancel these debts in question.

There is, indeed, a paramount obligation to pay those debts, but it does not rest upon the executive branch of the state government. It presses upon the legislative department solely, since it was out of the acts of that department that the obligations have developed. The people's honor is involved and they, through their legislators, are in duty bound to find the ways and means to cancel those debts of honor.

It is provided in the constitution for the governor that "he shall have power to convene the general assembly on extraordinary occasions; but no law shall be enacted at call sessions of the general assembly except such as shall relate to the object stated in his proclamation convening them." Whether the existence of these deficiency debts is such an extraordinary occasion for a call session is entirely for the governor to decide. It is to be assumed that he fully understands the conditions existing between the appropriations and the revenues and will exercise a prudent judgment as to the probability of a call session dealing with them adequately before he proclaims such a session.

COUNTY ROAD AID BONDS.

It has been ruled in Illinois that proceeds from the gasoline taxes that are allocated to the counties for road purposes may be used to pay the interest and to retire bonds issued by the counties to aid in building roads of the state highway system.

There are some $25,000,000 of such county road aid bonds outstanding in Georgia, and one-sixth of the gasoline taxes, averaging $2,500,000 per year and steadily mounting, is handed over to the counties, ostensibly under the law for the construction of tributary county roads connecting with the state highway lines. But the money is not, most evidently, so applied in most of the counties.

shall be applied to their carriage and retirement.

THE STATE AND THE BUSES.

The public service commission of Indiana has authorized the abandonment of 168 miles of interurban electric lines in that state. The cause is the decimation of the receipts of the line by the competition of motor bus lines. The lines lead out of Indianapolis, the state capital, to important cities in the state.

This instance is a particularly impressive showing of how both steam and electric railways are being hurt in their receipts by the multiplying bus lines in many of the more populous states. Passenger travel, especially for the average distance, has been rapidly shifting from the cars to the buses. The reports of the steam roads to the interstate commerce commission reveal a general and continuous decrease of revenues from passenger fares.

The problem is growing as to how the states should deal with the buses, using the state highways which are the property of the people, so as to render their competition with the rail and electric lines more equitable. Public utilities commissioners in several of the larger states are now wrestling with that problem.

Here in Georgia the problem is even more important than in any other state, for the state owns a main line railroad from Atlanta to Chattanooga. The state has built at heavy cost a hard paved highway between those termini, and the buses are using that highway to the manifest decimation of the state's railroad both as to earning power and ultimate market value. The legislature next year will no doubt take note of those facts and deal with them.

THE EXTRA SESSION GHOST.

The president is evidently trying to shield himself by the rule of "safety first" in seeking ways and means to avoid an extra session of the newly elected congress during next year.

Like Mark Twain's mining-camp cat that was blown up by a blast and survived in a sadly denuded condition, and that ever after shunned even a harmless post-hole, President Hoover can say, "Excuse me; I've been in one of those things already."

The work of the extra session of 1929 was much of a hot carbuncle on his neck. The next congress, with its shynish majority in both houses, might afflict him with all the boils that failed to find room on ancient Job.

The better policy for President Hoover will be to heartily accept the offer of the democratic high commanders and agree to pursue in the next congress only common welfare policies rather than to attempt a partisan rebuilding of his party's cyclone-blown fences.

He may wisely take into consideration that it is the people who build up prosperity. A party can tear it down, as the republican party has just done, but it cannot reconstruct it by any partisan program. Hence when the people become confident that President Hoover will no more aid and abet his party leaders in schemes to loot the masses in payment of campaign debts to special interests, they will take the brakes off business and push ahead to a new and larger prosperity.

TWO LIQUOR CONVENTIONS.

On the assumption that the Wickersham commission will have submitted a report of their prohibition findings to President Hoover before the congress reconvenes on December 1, and that he will have forwarded it to the congress with his comments thereon, both the prohibitionists and the anti-prohibitionists have called conferences at Washington city during December.

The announced purpose for both conventions is to consolidate their forces and to prepare a line of policy for their legislative and electoral activities from now on into the presidential and congressional campaign of 1932. It will help public opinion very wholesomely to be told by each side of the problem exactly what they propose to do to aid in its definite solution. The people at large are realizing that eventually they must deal with the desperate evils that now afflict them as consequences of the effort to impose total abstinence from liquors by national law.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Schalom

Asch.

If America may claim Schalom Asch, it is because he wrote a great deal of his best work in New York. On his fiftieth birthday, the European press hailed Asch as one of the great creators of our time. The birthday coincided with the publication of the third volume of his "Moscow," which was preceded by "Petersburg" and "Warsaw." Following the success of these books in Europe, Asch's life in New York was recognized as far back as 1906 when he read his novel, "The God of Vengeance," a company consisting of Max Reinhardt, Herman Bahr and Felix Hollaender in Cologne. The next day he telegraphed his wife.

"I was the first ray of happiness in a long, dark struggle. Poverty has been a good teacher and also a benefactor. For it has been instrumental in revealing to me the side of the oppressed, the down-trodden, the heavily laden and the poor. No political party or dogma have ever been so successful in revealing to me the side of the oppressed. Yet he is always to be found battling against petrified doctrines, which deny the sacrifice of the individual. "Once it was Moloch, then the czar, then religion, now it is the October revolution in Russia."

The figures in his books are illuminated with their creator's own humanity. Sometimes they make the reader think of Old Testament heroes and prophets, at other times of the Disciples of Christ. He began by depicting life in eastern Europe's ghettos. But soon his outlook broadened and he revealed human beings, until now, when we owe him the great historical epic "Warsaw-Petersburg-Moscow," which has nothing of the ordinary historical novel's trappings, but is a pure poetic conception of the tremendous events in the Slavic world during the last decade.

"Unmusical" English.

The English are not really musical. It seems they pretend to be, but the real music of their language is in the fact that they cannot comprehend it. This is a German view expressed by Magda Hattingsberg, writing in the "Koenigsberg Zeitung." There is a sympathetic response of an audience which does not express itself in applause. It is the most exquisite tribute an artist can receive. The form of silence. No cold, dull silence, this, indicating frigidity aloofness, but an eloquent silence, breathing emotional silence, the courage to silence for the very greatest artist. And of such eloquent silence the "unmusical" English people are capable as are the rest of the world.

The English are not musically creative. England has never evolved a great musical composer. The masses of English people are inclined to sing. Music to these English is not innate in the last analysis. Music is what they have attained, struggled for through their longing to enter the happy land of harmony, which is not native to them, although their heart's desire is to belong to it. The great English captain of industry, who sat of an evening in his armchair, puffing in mouth, seemingly oblivious of the world around him behind his favorite newspaper, yet should he be hit by the music of Beethoven floating to his ear from a neighboring room, took pains to reassume a stolid countenance as he plunged into the financial news of the day. For nobody must mark how profoundly he was touched by these emanations from the higher spheres. Self-mastery over emotion, Fran Hattingsberg, who seems to make out a very good case for what she tries to disprove.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM READEY.

CURRENT MEDICAL VIEWS ON THE REMOVAL OF THE TONSILS.

When Dr. Albert D. Kasper, noted child specialist and world authority on the effects of tonsillotomy, presented to the profession his latest report on the effects he observed in thousands of children in Rochester, N. Y., whose tonsils had been removed, compared with a similar number of children of like age and the same conditions whose tonsils had not been removed, a number of physicians discussing Dr. Kasper's work voiced their views on the question.

Dr. John Morse, of Boston, confessed he hadn't the slightest idea whether or not the removal of the tonsils has any effect on the frequency of colds and sore throats or of heart disease, or whether heart disease gets better or worse after their removal, but he thought that the removal of tonsils and adenoids sometimes has a good effect on the general condition.

Dr. J. J. Shea, of Memphis, said that from studies he had made with Dr. E. C. Mitchell, why there was more sinus disease among children who had suffered the loss of their tonsils and adenoids than among children who had retained theirs. It was his opinion that the tonsils and adenoids are selectors of the germs to which the child is exposed, or regularly exposed, and by germ just enough germs to gain entrance to the blood or the system to stimulate or maintain immunity.

When tonsils and adenoids are removed the burden falls on the nasal sinuses, and the sinuses succumb. Dr. Shea suggested that children who have lost their tonsils and adenoids especially need the benefit of cod liver oil and sun baths as well as vaccine treatment to help them maintain immunity.

The prohibition people must realize also that their past standpoint on that law policy will not serve them longer and that they must present some more promising plan than that now in force.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My Dear Louise:

Now that you are in college, home seems a dreary and deserted place to your mother and me. We think of you most of the time, and of course worry about you more than we should.

We might console ourselves in some measure by adopting one of the thousands of little kids that need homes, but the thought of assuming responsibility for another one—studying it and experimenting with it and planning endless strategy to shape its character—fills me with dread and misgivings.

Not for worlds would I again face the alternative of punishing a wife child or permitting it to develop faults and weaknesses to handicap it through life.

If there is any way to train a child and keep it free of temper, impudence, disobedience and deceit without some form of punishment, I have yet to discover it. True, I have seen children whose fond parents said they were "raised on love instead of punishment," but it was a mystery to me how anybody could love them.

I had to punish you. Sometimes, when your red-head temper was yet undisciplined and you persisted in disobedience, I switched you. It wasn't much of a switch—a shoot of privet half the size of a pencil—but to you it must have seemed a fearful weapon, and the look of pleading in your eyes so unmanly that I could scarcely lift it.

That look has haunted me for years, and always will. You must punish them, my dear, to save them from misery in years to come; but oh! it is a cruel duty, and I shall not willingly assume it again.

Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth. There doesn't seem to be any other way to save loved ones from the numbers of youngsters who are making a mess of their lives for want of discipline.

In college you have discovered new rules and new ways of punishment. So many minor offenses make a major; so many majors result in the loss of privileges and liberties. I wonder if you have a minor yet?

In any case you have discovered that wherever you go you are surrounded by the breaking of laws is followed inevitably by some kind of punishment.

There wouldn't be any jails if punishment wasn't the hand-maiden of virtue.

You can't break any law of God or man without paying for it, honey. When you violate the law of common sense there's a bill to pay.

Common sense urges you to avoid exposure while you have that cold. Don't be dumb enough to risk bronchitis or pneumonia for the sake of a little fun now. The fine is too heavy.

IN NEW YORK MOVIE STUDIOS

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Hollywood conferees had warned me that I would not care for "Once in a Lifetime," this season's theatrical caricature of Hollywood, which is having a successful run in a season of failures.

Since the Hollywood mind seldom punks anyone, the caricature of the colony of the studios or the personnel of the studios is a bit out of the ordinary. I fully expected them to do a little thing like "The Sign of the Cross," a dull proceeding.

Two things are apt to bother a Hollywood writer attending the performance. How did the reviewer pay for the privilege of sitting in the box? To Miss Hart, the play's author, who knows so much about Hollywood? And how did the reviewer get into the picture? The Hart girl, who is a success, and is it in itself?

Both puzzles resolve themselves neatly before the evening is over. Miss Hart, keeping his eyes open, heard a faithful picture of the exaggerations of the gold coast. As for George Kaufman? Any author should pay for the privilege of sitting in the box. He has in the role of Lawrence Vail. It enables him to tell M. P. M.'s what is wrong with their picture. And movie picture magazines are so inaccessible that this is one of the only ways it can be done.

When Carl Van Vechten wrote "Spider Boy," he bent over backward to give the world a funny picture. But you can't caricature a comic valetine and keep it from being a comedy. When the Graham Brothers wrote "Queer People" they lampooned the Hollywood who had known the truth of picture-making and their bringing it up to date. And this center of gelatin manufacture moves so swiftly that the comedy of a leisurely writer is apt to be out-moded by the time it reaches the dear public. By the time it may, "Queer People" has been out for a long time and will be made into a picture he declares.

Such had been the effect on the village that in the week of my departure such studios as were running—and three of the largest had shut their doors—had been closed for production. There was a rumor that Mary Pickford had ordered "Kiki" to be put on the market for sale. For the sake of all our sanity I hope this was only a rumor.

John Murray Anderson, suggesting stories for possible direction was met by the query "can it be put in the wood?" The gelatin village had had an attack of egoism. Broadway and the publishers of the country were not willing to support a new picture in the wood village. The M. P. M.'s were

Lawrence Richey Bags White House Dinner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The fowl for the Thanksgiving table at the White House already are in the icebox there, but promises of more to come have been made, as usual.

Two wild turkeys and four pheasants were shot yesterday near Hagerstown, Md., by Lawrence Richey, secretary to the president, and Henry V. Bridges, of Baltimore, secretary of the Woodmont Rod & Gun Club, on the preserves of which they were killed.

The larger bird, weighing 22 pounds, was shot by Mr. Bridges, and is intended for the Thanksgiving dinner of President and Mrs. Hoover.

Several letters have told of more turkeys being sent. The president generally receives birds from many sections of the country. Last year the surplus supply was given to charity.

JOHNS NEW DEPUTY RESERVE GOVERNOR

Auditor Chosen To Succeed Creed Taylor by Directors.

W. S. Johns, general auditor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, was chosen by the bank's directors Friday to be deputy governor, succeeding the late Creed Taylor, who was fatally burned in a fire at his home several weeks ago. E. E. Paris, an examiner on the bank's staff, was chosen to fill Mr. Johns' post as auditor.

Mr. Johns is a graduate of Mercer University and for many years has been prominent in banking circles of the south. After leaving college he taught school for a short period and then entered the service of the Citizens Bank & Trust Company at Athens, serving first as clerk, later as assistant cashier and still later cashier and member of the directorate. He joined the staff of the federal reserve in 1919 as chief examiner of audits and accounts and served through various capacities until two years ago when he became head auditor.

Mr. Paris is a native of Alpharetta and had a wide experience in country banking before joining the reserve staff in 1918.

Atlanta Seventh Crime Rampant, In Traffic Deaths; Police To Ignore 'Near Beer' Sales

The borough of Atlanta, with six fatalities reported during the four-week period ended November 1, ranked seventh among 78 American cities in the high percentage of traffic deaths, according to figures released Friday by the United States department of commerce. In addition to the six deaths in the borough there were five other deaths reported.

The commerce department's figures show that the death rate here per 100,000 population was 28.5. Cities with a higher percentage were Columbus, Ohio, Fall River, Mass., Oakland, Cal., Oklahoma City, Okla., San Francisco and Wilmington, Del.

There were 750 deaths in the country for the period as compared with 842 for the like period of 1929. The total deaths for the year in Greater Atlanta were 93, 64 of which occurred within the borough.

BIG LIQUOR CARGO, BOTTLES SEIZED

About 30 gallons of alleged whisky, a large quantity of coloring fluid, bottles, corks and other paraphernalia for the bottling of liquor was found by police and federal agents Friday in a raid on a building at 513 West Peachtree street. The building was deserted. Two trucks were required to haul the confiscated cargo to police headquarters.

City Detectives C. E. McCrary and R. R. Davis, who participated in the raid, said the building was extensively equipped and apparently had been in use by bootleggers for some time. The space in which the alleged whisky was found was reported to have been rented by the "K. & B. Manufacturing Company" and the police Friday night were attempting to ascertain the identity of officials of the company.

There is too much crime with which to contend, and too strong a flow of hard liquor to bother about attempting to stop the sale of near beer, ruled illegal in a recent opinion of the appellate court, Sheriff James I. Lowry and Captain George H. Mathieson, chief of the county police, said Friday. James I. Beavers, city chief of police, said he had not been officially informed that near beer is illegal and intimated that no effort will be made to enforce the law against it.

"We have too many holdup men, burglars and other law violators to combat to waste our time chasing down near beer peddlers and drinkers," Captain Lowry said.

Chief Mathieson said his men were concentrating their efforts in an attempt to cut off Atlanta's supply of corn whisky and did not "have time to fool with near beer."

"In the strict letter of the law buttermilk is a violation," Chief Mathieson said. "It contains 1 per cent alcohol. It has a stronger content than near beer."

Chief Beavers had no statement to make, but he indicated strongly that the city police would do nothing about near beer.

"No new orders have been issued and none are contemplated," was all the chief would say about the liquor situation.

BINDER TO BE GIVEN FULL MILITARY BURIAL

Full military honors will be accorded Adolph E. Binder, 50, of 1352 Binder place, N. E., at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in West View cemetery, following services at Spring Hill. Mr. Binder, a resident of Atlanta for 49 years, served throughout the Spanish-American War as a member of a local unit.

He was born in Camden, N. J., in 1880 and came to Atlanta when a small child. He died suddenly Friday morning after a heart attack. Surviving him are his widow, seven children, two brothers and two sisters.

ALLARD RETRACTS MURDER CONFESSION

Nagel Killer Admits Story of Baker Case Complete Fabrication.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Harry Allard, 24, admitted to Washington and Schenectady police today that the story he told yesterday of having been the murderer of Mary Baker in Washington April 12 was a complete fabrication.

Allard also admitted he had written a letter to the chief of police in Washington accusing Allard of the murder and signing an assumed name. From what he styled reasons of his own he would not tell why he had described himself as the perpetrator of a crime for which Herbert Campbell, Washington realtor, was tried and acquitted.

The admissions by Allard came after an hour and a half of questioning by Washington and Schenectady police who had previously found discrepancies in his story. Police believed one reason "for the confession" was a desire to delay his removal to Clinton prison at Dannemora, to which he has been sentenced for five years for theft of an automobile. He also faces a charge of having had a pistol on his person when he appeared in court for arraignment. He claimed the weapon was given him by a confederate so he might attempt to shoot his way out and have made two arrests in this connection.

Allard also still faces charges growing out of the murder of Frank Nagel near Darien, Ga., in 1928. Police said he admitted this killing but claimed he acted in self-defense. When he "confessed" to the Baker murder he said he killed the United States government office clerk because he knew of the Nagel case and threatened to notify police.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP FORMED IN M'DONOUGH

M'DONOUGH, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A Girl Scout troop was organized by Mrs. Ansel C. Smith, the wife of a farmer on Friday afternoon. The troop consists of 22 charter members who were divided into two patrols under the leadership of May Ann, assisted by Caroline Carmichael as head of the Vistaria patrol, and Grace Hooten, assisted by Frances Warren, as head of the Lily patrol.

Since the membership is so large, three patrols will be formed at the next meeting. Friday afternoon five were selected as the regular time for getting together. The members are Marion Adams, May Ann, Caroline Carmichael, Ethel Carmichael, Dorothy Cook, Katherine Cook, Sara Ellis, Jean George, Fay Hand, Grace Hooten, Macie Hunt, Ollie Knight, Emma Maddox, Frances McCord, Thelma McCord, Sue McDonald, Mary Grace Rodgers, Eleanor Sims, Evelyn Thurston, Marjorie Turner, Katherine Walker and Frances Warren.

BLACK PROTESTS POLITICAL TRUCE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Senator Hugo Black, democrat, Alabama, issued a statement today saying "the sooner and more aggressively democrats wage uncompromising warfare on republican governmental policies that have brought distress to America, the more worthy does our party prove of the trust of the people."

Asked if the statement was intended as a repudiation of the pledge of legislative co-operation made several days ago by seven democratic leaders, Senator Black said it was intended, in the light of the discussion of the "operation" offer as an expression of his "conviction that the results of the election . . . show that the people want quick and effective action from congress in repudiation of republican policies condemned at the polls."

Two Negroes Indicted.

Indictment of Ivy Allen, negro, for murder of James Horace Allen and Willie Mosley, negroes, on October 31, was returned Friday by the Fulton grand jury. Ed Watkins, negro, was indicted for the murder of Guy Parry, negro, on November 9. At the solicitor general's office, it was said that Allen killed the two negroes by firing into a group of persons from his front porch with a rifle.

Watermelon Plays Part in Murder Trial

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A watermelon played the lead part in a murder trial here when Obe Richardson, 33, a former slave, according to his own statement, was tried and convicted of the slaying of Zeke Wilson on July 1. He goes to the penitentiary for five years, having been convicted of voluntary manslaughter.

The state contended that Wilson had a watermelon under one arm and a large knife in his hand when he was shot down by Richardson. This was to refute the defense contention that Wilson had attacked the defendant with a knife, thus tending to establish his plea of self defense.

WAYCROSS MAN DIES AS AUTO HITS POLE

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Matthew Gainey, 52, steel worker in the car department of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad shops, and operator of a filling station on the Waycross-Blackshear highway, was killed Friday in an automobile crash near his home in piece county to Waycross, when his car skidded off the road and struck a telephone pole.

Oscar Strickland, who was driving a short distance behind Gainey, saw the crash. He picked up the unconscious man and brought him to a Waycross hospital, but Gainey died in a short time.

Gainey was traveling alone, it is stated. His car was practically demolished, the crash breaking the telephone pole off even with the ground.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL TO SAVANNAH MAN

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Frederick Godfrey Jaugstetter, 32, died here from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on November 14.

The driver of the car did not stop and police have not learned his identity.

Mr. Jaugstetter came to the United States from Germany with his parents and for 47 years was connected with the barber trade here. He was an ardent trap shooter and fisherman and a member of the Forest City Gun Club.

GEORGIAN INJURED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Macon, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Harry Bell, 30, of Cross Keys, Ga., died here from injuries received Friday when his automobile was struck by Central of Georgia passenger train No. 13 near here.

Bell was thrown clear of his automobile, which was demolished. The accident happened at the Mogul crossing. At the hospital Bell's condition was reported favorable.

CITIZENS FLOYD BANK CLOSES DOORS IN ROME

ROME, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—W. J. Davis, assistant state superintendent of banks, Friday, took over affairs of the Citizens Floyd Bank & Trust Co. here, for liquidation, and in a statement said the institution was unable to meet its obligations.

Stockholders issued a statement saying depositors would not lose a cent.

VANS AGNEW FUNERAL PLANS ARE DELAYED

Funeral arrangements for Colonel Robert Vans Agnew, 68, retired army officer of Bradenton, Fla., who was killed almost instantly Thursday night in an automobile accident two miles south of Jonesboro, will not be completed until the arrival of his widow, it was announced Friday by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Colonel Vans Agnew's car was virtually demolished when it collided with the rear of a truck, and the officer died en route to Grady hospital. He was returning to his home after visiting his son, a student at the University of Georgia, when the accident occurred.

TESTIMONY FALSE, SAYS EARLY WARREN

Convicted Slayer Says He Implicated Kent To Escape Chair.

MILLEN, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Officer testimony given by the Early Warren, sentenced this week to life term in the state penitentiary following his plea of guilty to the murder of Mrs. Calma Johnson, last July, in an unsworn statement in the county jail this afternoon in the presence of a half dozen persons, declared that testimony he gave at the trial of Beverly Kent was a fabrication.

Kent was convicted this week of murder in connection with the same killing and also was given a life term. Warren was the state's principal witness but there were other witnesses to substantiate certain features of the case.

Members of the Johnson family testified they saw Kent open the window and also saw Warren as he fired.

It is understood that the statement made by Warren today will be put in the form of an affidavit, sworn to and then will be used by lawyers for Kent in an effort to obtain a new trial.

In his statement today Warren said that he visited the Johnson home for the purpose of killing his estranged wife, a daughter of Mrs. Johnson, and that he shot and killed Mrs. Johnson.

He said that on the witness stand he sought to escape the electric chair and told the jury that he saw the murder in an effort to get a life term, which he did, following the conviction of Kent.

Persons familiar with the case say that Warren has told so many different versions that they do not know what to think of the new story. Lawyers for Kent have already given notice for a motion for new trial and it is to be heard by Judge H. A. Strange.

SAVANSVILLE LIONS AWARD DAIRY PRIZES

SAVANSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Lions Club of Savansville today awarded 10 prizes to the farmers of Washington county, winners of the dairy contest sponsored by the club several months ago. Among the winners were: J. W. Fitch, head of the dairy department of the State College of Agriculture, in part, Mr. Fitch said.

"As far as I know, the Savansville Lions Club is one of the first, if not the first, in the state to sponsor a contest of this kind. This has brought about greater enthusiasm and interest among the farmers of Washington county in the dairy industry. The dairy industry is the greatest branch in American agriculture today, but in Georgia it is one of the minor branches. It is well known that Georgia has the soil and climate which makes it ideal for dairying. Cows may graze practically throughout the year. No steam-heated barns are necessary and with a little more attention each farmer could make money from his cows."

In a contest of this kind the eyes are the farmers are opened to the possibilities of the cash that may be realized from dairying, not in the fall months as with cotton, but throughout the entire year. There is always a ready market for dairy products. Georgia does not begin to produce the butter that is consumed in this state, which many of your people know to be true. With this movement started, I sincerely trust that the organizations throughout the state will put their shoulders to the wheel and interest our farmers in the production of better types of dairy cows."

Those winning the 10 prizes offered by the Lions Club are: First prize, a cream separator, to Mel J. Tanner; second, a Guernsey bull calf, to C. B. Davis; third prize, G. W. Doolittle; fourth, 100 pounds grass seed, to F. S. Andrews; fifth, a Poland-China gilt, to W. P. Cullen; sixth, a 6-gallon churn, to Willis Jones. Other prize winners were: C. G. Newsome, C. F. Hall, W. O. Renfro and John F. Tanner.

SAVANNAH DEMOCRATS
ADOPT PRIMARY RULES

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Rules for the city primary to be held on December 9, were adopted here by the city democratic executive committee, John R. Fawcett, chairman.

A mayor, 12 aldermen from the city at large, a police recorder, and 24 members of the city democratic executive committee will be nominated at the primary.

The chief point in the new rules is that "single shooting" shall not be allowed. That is the voter must vote 12 aldermanic candidates and 24 executive committeemen, otherwise ballots as to that particular office shall be void.

This does not mean, the chairman interpreted, that a candidate cannot be substituted for and named on the ballot in any one slate, but that the record number must be voted for or else the ballot will be thrown out. Entrance fees must be paid by November 22 along with nomination of the candidates. The committee placed the following fees for candidates: Mayor $350; alderman $50; recorder $300, while for committeemen there is no fee.

EDUCATORS CONVENE MEETING IN ROME

ROME, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Outstanding educators of the state were on the program Friday for a regional meeting here of the Georgia Education Association.

A holiday in the city and county schools here was ordered so that all teachers would have opportunity to attend the session, the purpose of which is to bring the teachers and superintendents the latest information in methods.

J. L. Venable, superintendent of Moultrie schools, and state president of the G. E. A., was expected to preside. Those on the program for the meeting included Superintendent J. E. Purkis of Cedarhurst; Mrs. R. H. Hankinson, of McDonough, president of the Georgia Parent-Teacher Association; Dr. S. S. Cullen, University of Georgia; Dr. Spright Dowell, Mercer University; President J. H. Walker, of the Georgia Vocational school at Macon; and Dr. Ralph Wagner, of Emory University.

ARMY PLANE FORCED DOWN IN SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—An army amphibian plane, en route from Bolling field, Washington, to Miami, Fla., to pick up Brigadier General William G. Everson, chief of military bureau, for a trip to Porto Rico, was forced down here this afternoon by bad weather.

Captain Vincent J. Meloy, Lieutenant Robert J. Giovannoli and Sergeant Fred A. Roberts are aboard the plane. The plane landed Wednesday afternoon at Fort Bragg, N. C., and did not leave there until 1:40 o'clock this morning, arriving at Savannah at 4:20 o'clock.

Brigadier General Everson is going to Porto Rico to inspect three units of the Porto Rican National Guard.

THOMASVILLE ROTARY HEARS LEE BRANCH

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 14.—Lee Branch, of Quitman, prominent south Georgia attorney, was the speaker Thursday at the Thomasville Rotary Club meeting, when two new members were received into the organization.

The new members were Richard Archbold, who is connected with the American Museum of Natural History, and a son of the late John F. Archbold, of New York, capitalist, and big game hunter of this section, and Edward Zeigler, local floriculturist.

Mr. Branch outlined differences in criminal concepts and procedure in the United States and in England. The American methods, he said, are progressive, leading toward realization of ideals, while the English are processes of legislating these things which have already been accepted as standards of conduct.

GOOD PRICES SEEN FOR 1931 TOBACCO

John F. Lewis, Former Valdosta Banker, Encouraged Over Prospects.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—John F. Lewis, a former Valdosta banker and now vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, feels much encouraged over the prospects for south Georgia tobacco prices in 1931.

Mr. Lewis since tobacco growing was introduced, has shown a great interest in the business and financed the movement in a very liberal way.

The low prices last season, however, discouraged Mr. Lewis. He has received several samples of tobacco this week from North Carolina markets and finds that it is now selling in North Carolina at more than eight cents above the south Georgia price of last summer.

As this is the close of the North Carolina season Mr. Lewis is of the opinion that it means that the Georgia market will open next year at about the North Carolina close of this season.

Mr. Lewis has made a study of tobacco marketing and he feels that the present indications are very encouraging. He is also of the opinion that low prices of last season will crowd out growers incapable of producing a high-class article and that other growers will make a reduction in acreage, forming a combination that will be of great benefit to those who produce a high-grade weed next year.

Machine Gun Bandits Get $9 in Holdup

MACON, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—D. L. Sanders, proprietor of a store located on a short-cut route to Florida, near here, reported to the sheriff's office he was held up Friday by three men armed with a sub-machine gun.

The robbers took $9, some food and helped themselves to a tank of gasoline, Sanders reported.

Sanders said the men blew something like powder in his face as they left and he was unconscious for three hours.

The sheriff's office said Sanders gave a detailed description of the men. He described two of them as being small in stature and apparently aliens. The other was a large man. They were driving a yellow roadster of a well known light make.

MRS. J. F. M'CRACKIN, OF VALDOSTA, PASSES

VALDOSTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—News was received here today of the death in an Atlanta sanatorium of Mrs. James F. McCrackin, 41 years of age, beloved Valdosta resident, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. McCrackin has been in ill health for more than a year, and since last summer her condition has been growing steadily worse.

Mrs. McCrackin was a native of Valdosta, the former Miss Louise Ousley, daughter of the late Robert F. Ousley. She was a member of the First Methodist church, and is survived by her husband, Judge James F. McCrackin; a sister, Mrs. J. C. Woodwards of New York city, and an uncle, M. R. Ousley, of this city.

TERRELL COUNTY PLANS HUGE FARM PROGRAM

Drive To Make Every Farm Self-Sustaining Advocated by Leaders.

DAWSON, Ga., Nov. 14.—Declaring that the urgent need for a farm program that would make each farm in itself self-sustaining was never more apparent than at present, the members of the Dawson Kiwanis Club, the Terrell County Business Association, composed of the independent merchants of the county, the banks of Terrell county, business firms and numerous individual farmers have signed their willingness to sponsor a farm program that will make every farmer as nearly self-supporting as is practical with good business judgment.

A committee appointed by the local Kiwanis Club has labored diligently on a program which would enable every farmer to make his farm nearly self-sustaining, and after careful deliberation and counsel with the banks and other business institutions of the county a program as outlined below has been recommended.

The program, as suggested, is for a one-horse farm taken as a unit. To committee and everyone sponsoring the program realizes that while it may not be carried out to the letter, it is so flexible that it may be adjusted to the needs of each individual planter.

Special emphasis is placed upon the cross that will produce food for the family and feed for live stock.

GULFPORT, Miss., Nov. 14.—Mississippi Daughters of the American Revolution entertained 300 delegates attending the southern divisional meeting of the national society, D. A. R., November 14 and 15, at Gulfport, a luncheon being the initial event on Friday, given in honor of the president general of the national society, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, held at the Hotel Markham. Business sessions were held on the roof garden of this hotel overlooking the gulf, the first session opening Friday, with Mrs. Hobart presiding and Mrs. Matthew Brewster, of Louisiana, vice president general and former chairman general, giving the invocation. Address of welcome was given by Miss Myra Hazard, state regent of Mississippi, and official hostess, and the response was by Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Holyoke, Mass., librarian general of the national society.

Greetings Offered.
National officers offered greetings as follows: Mrs. Harriet V. Rigdon, Indiana, treasurer general; Mrs. Russell William Magna, librarian general; Mrs. Alfred J. Brouseau, Connecticut, honorary president general, and Dr. Flora Myers Gillentine, historian general, and delightfully remembered in Georgia as the former president of the southeastern council Federation of Women's Clubs. The president general's message at the opening session was an inspiration to the hundreds of daughters, the meeting giving to many Daughters of the American Revolution the opportunity of knowing personally the brilliant women serving as officers of the national society. Others on the program were Mrs. J. H. Walsh, of Louisiana, director of the Children of the American Revolution; the vice chairman of the southern division of the national committee. Among these, Georgia was represented by Mrs. Howard H. McCall, former vice president general and vice chairman of committee on historical and literary reciprocity.

Georgia Attending.
Among the vice chairman on Saturday's program was Mrs. H. Fay Gaffney, Georgia's candidate for vice Mothers and friends of the pupils of the primary department of the Gordon Street Presbyterian Sunday school will be honored at a tea by Mrs. Roland Lyons, superintendent of the primary department, this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the primary room of the Sunday school. A program will be presented with opening prayer offered by Rev. Harold Shields, pastor of the church. A reading will be given by Glenn Combee, and the music will feature a song by Constance Martin, duet by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cunningham, piano solo by Miss Josephine Johnston, who will also furnish the music during the tea. Miss Frances Woodruff will keep the mothers' register. The specially invited guests will include Mrs. G. P. Langford, the primary mother; the teachers of the first, second and third grades and the principal, Mrs. Eva Thornton, of the J. C. Harris school; the teachers of the first, second and third grades, and the principal, Miss Lillian Flynn, of the Frank L. Stanton school.

George McDonald
Boys' Dept.

A graduate of Oglethorpe University, George McDonald, now in charge of the young men's and older boys' department on Eiseman's second floor, cannot claim credit for many years of actual service, but in natural qualifications for friend-making he ranks high.

Those who have had occasion to visit his department are well aware of the complete stocks on hand and are delighted with the capable, frank and friendly spirit so willingly displayed by Mr. McDonald in presenting merchandise.

Although being the youngest man in the organization in point of years, he has acquired a splendid call trade and won the favor of Eiseman's regular clientele. In presenting the new winter and holiday stocks Mr. McDonald suggests early selection while assortments afford the most complete variety in the city.

Cornelia Moore Nursery Benefit.

Cornelia Moore Day Nursery auxiliary announces that the proceeds derived from attendance today and tomorrow on the Oasis golf course on Peachtree street, next to the Medical Arts building, will be contributed by the management to the building fund of the nursery.

The golf course opened Wednesday evening, the proceeds for the first three days being devoted to the fund. Members of the Cornelia Moore Day Nursery auxiliary will act as hostesses for these days. This course is glass enclosed and heated. There will be an orchestra and a space for dancing.

Acting as hostesses will be prominent Atlanta matrons who compose the auxiliary of the nursery, including Mesdames Henry B. Tompkins, Lewis Gregg, Rucker McCarly, Winship Nunnally, Floyd McKee, Robert Troutman, Joel Hurt, Brooks Morgan, Jerry Osborne, Sam Slicer, Glenville Giddings and Ewell Gay.

Assisting these matrons will be members of the Sub-deb Colony Club, a group of belles who have selected the nursery as their pet charity, to which their untiring efforts are directed.

Mrs. Haley Honors Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby.

Mrs. Belle Haley was hostess at luncheon Wednesday at the Daffodil Tea Room on Pryor street, honoring Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, who recently returned from a trip around the world, and who will leave Sunday night for a two-weeks' trip to Chicago, Ill., and other cities. Covers were placed for Mesdames Rose Mae Ashby, Estelle Wilson, Alice Gibbs, Mary Gifford and Belle Haley.

Miss Whitman and Robert Hunt Are Honored at Rehearsal Party

Following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Elizabeth Whitman and Robert Hunt at North Avenue Presbyterian church last evening, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Whitman, parents of the bride, entertained at a buffet supper at their home on Juniper street. The marriage of Miss Whitman and Mr. Hunt will be a brilliant social event taking place at high noon today at North Avenue church.

The house was artistically decorated with chrysanthemums, and the dining table was overlaid with a real lace cloth. In the center was a crystal bowl filled with pink roses, and crystal candlesticks holding pink tapers were placed at intervals around the table.

The guests were members of the Rosebud Juniors
Elect New Members.
Rosebud Junior Garden Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Charlotte Sage. The president, Miss Edith Shepherd, presided, and three new members were elected, including Misses Grace Winecoff, Sarah Arechevala and Nancy Boley.

Mrs. A. B. Matthews talked most interestingly to the members about "dish gardens," and built one for them. The girls were so interested that it was decided that each member should bring a "dish garden" to the next meeting and that these would be taken to the children's ward at Grady hospital. A prize will be offered for the most artistic and inexpensive garden displayed.

MISS CAROLYN PAULLIN PRESENTED TO ATLANTA SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. Paullin Hosts At Ball at Driving Club

Fashionable Atlanta society paid homage to the beauty and charm of Miss Carolyn Paullin last evening when her parents, Dr. and Mrs. James Edgar Paullin, entertained in her honor, presenting their daughter to the members of the debutante contingent and 100 friends among the married set at a brilliant ball at the Piedmont Driving Club. Miss Paullin is one of the most engaging of the season's buds and her formal bow was an event of importance in the annals of social Atlanta.

Provided with a setting of unusual beauty, the ball was held in the handsome ballroom of the club, which was lavishly decorated with quantities of golden yellow chrysanthemums combined with ferns, palms, and myriads of tall yellow tapers burning in silver holders. The columns ranging the length of the ballroom were twined with garlands of smilax and tall palms flanked the entrance, and both sides of the fireplace at the far end of the room where a cheery fire burned. A large basket of yellow chrysanthemums centered the mantel and at either end were silver candelabra holding yellow waxen tapers. Punch was served in the loggia which was adorned with palms and ferns, forming a rich background for the huge silver bowls placed in mounds of tiny yellow button chrysanthemums.

Receiving Party.

The debutante and her parents received the guests at the entrance of the ballroom, standing before a floral screen formed of asparagus fern, studded with gorgeous bouquets of choicest hothouse flowers sent to the lovely home guest by hosts of admiring friends. The receiving party included Dr. and Mrs. Paullin, Miss Paullin, Miss Mary Vereen, of Moultrie, and Miss Lucy Furman, of Greenville, S. C.

Mrs. Paullin was handsomely gowned in black and white chiffon smartly combined in an imported model, and her flowers were a shoulder spray of orchids. Miss Paullin wore for her debut a Paton gown of shell pink crepe, glistening with tiny tear-drop crystals, which she brought from Europe early in the fall when she returned from a summer's travel on the continent. Cut in a deep "V" in the back, the gown featured the fashionable princess lines and the long flowing skirt which was especially becoming to her slender, graceful figure. She carried an arm bouquet of delicately pink tinted orchids.

Miss Vereen, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie, wore a becoming gown of turquoise blue velvet, intricately cut after the French fashion, long, flowing lines. Miss Furman, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Furman, was gowned in white satin, fashioned on princess lines. Her shoulder bouquets were of orchids.

Grand March.

A very attractive feature of the ball was the grand march, in which only the members of the Debutante Club and their escorts participated. The guest of honor dancing with her father, Dr. James Edgar Paullin. At midnight supper was served, the coffee and chocolate tables being placed near the entrance to the ballroom. The tables were exquisitely appointed, holding in the center large plateaux of deep golden yellow chrysanthemums and at either end massive silver candelabra holding tall yellow tapers. The mints and bonbons were embossed in tiny flowers carrying the color motif of yellow.

Among the guests from a distance who added interest to the occasion were: Dr. John W. W. of Nashville, Tenn.; Ralph Frederick, of Brussels, Belgium, uncle of the debutante; Miss Marie Lou Frederick, of Marshallville; Miss Mary Vereen, of Moultrie; Miss Lucy Furman, of Greenville, S. C.; Miss Rosalind Vereen, of Moultrie; Miss Eugenia Freyer, of Washington, D. C., a debutante of last winter in the national capital; Clara Frederick, of Macon; Felder Frederick, of Marshallville.

Mrs. Norton Honors Bride-Elect.

Mrs. M. D. Norton was hostess at a bridge-tee yesterday at her home on Tallwater road, in compliment to Miss Flora Jane Coffey, whose marriage to Arthur Marriott Bennett, Jr., of Tampa Fla., will be solemnized this month. The guests included a group of the honor guests' close friends.

Miss Caroline Paullin Makes Debut

Miss Caroline Paullin, lovely debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Edgar Paullin, who was formally presented to fashionable members of Atlanta society at a brilliant ball last evening, given at the Piedmont Driving Club, is shown in the center; Miss Mary Vereen, of Moultrie, left, and Miss Lucy Furman, of Greenville, S. C., right. Intimate friends of the debutante were in the receiving line, and were among the visiting belles, adding colorful interest to this social event. Several hundred members of the married and unmarried set of society greeted Miss Paullin upon this auspicious occasion, the debutante being among the prominent members of the Atlanta Junior League, and belongs to one of the most aristocratic families in Georgia. ## Junior League Marionettes At Buckhead Theater Today

The appearance of the Junior League Marionettes in three plays from "Uncle Remus" at the Buckhead theater this morning at 10:30 o'clock, will be the occasion of a large gathering of youthful Atlanta. The performances of the Marionettes have always been greeted by enthusiastic audiences and the three plays to be given will add to their already great fame. The plays are "The Tar Baby," "Mr. Wolf's Plan That Failed," and "Sis Cow and the Simmon Tree." Six Junior League members who are experienced and skillful puppeteers compose the cast.

The plays were adapted from the "Uncle Remus" stories by Mrs. Robert Foreman, Jr., Mrs. Turner Jones and Mrs. Horace Rhoter. They are among the best-known and best-liked of the Uncle Remus stories and are so dramatized as to preserve the charm and humor of the original stories. The chairman of the Marionettes is Mrs. Wiley Ballard, who has been the moving spirit of this group from its very beginning. Miss Carolyn Nicolson, who is the chairman of tickets, reports a large advance sale for the plays.

Mrs. Clark Howell, Jr., is president of the Junior League and members will have the pleasure of ushering the children. Mesdames A. J. Orme, Jr., is the chairman of ushers. The committee includes Mesdames Harry Cannon, Jack Thiesen, Hooper Bennett, Hughes Roberts, Preston Upshaw, George Campbell, Charlotte Meador, Edna Dunn, Mrs. John Fitts and Miss Julia Meador. The Buckhead theater seats 1,500.

The Buckhead theater seats 1,500. E. Shepard and Scott Hudson.

Miss Senta Mueller Meetings Planned And Artists Appear Next Week at Woman's Club

COLLEGE PARK, Ga., Nov. 14.—An enthusiastic audience greeted Miss Senta Mueller and her corps of artists, appearing before the College Park Music Club Wednesday afternoon in a study of the Violin Family.

The Beethoven Trio in E Flat for violin, cello and piano was exquisitely rendered by Miss Mueller, violin, Gustav Gascio, cello, and Mrs. Kurt Mueller, piano. A cello solo by Mr. Gascio showed to excellent advantage the mellow tone quality of this instrument which is seldom heard in solo. Mrs. Troy Roper, lyric soprano, pupil of Mrs. Kurt Mueller, sang an aria from "Il Repostore," by Mozart. She possesses a voice of splendid quality and she gave an intelligent interpretation of this old classic. A bit of sentiment attached to her rendition of this number is that her great-grandmother, who was an opera singer of yesterday, sang this role in solo.

Mrs. Mueller, who has had excellent advantages as a student here and abroad, presented the program in an artistic manner and her playing, whether ensemble, as accompanist or in solo, was a joy to those appreciating stage presence, coupled with a colorful tone quality and excellent technique. A business session was held by Mrs. Mueller, Mrs. Clarence Wall, presiding, and announcement was made of an evening musicale to be given on December 12 at the Women's Club auditorium, for the benefit of the piano fund for the Women's Club. This courtesy is extended by the music club in appreciation of the use of the very fine piano at their disposal at all meetings and concerts. A general fee of 25 cents will be charged in order that a large crowd may be able to attend the musicale, and the line of the program will be announced later.

Special attention was called to the lecture-recital by Miss Helen Coyne Riley Thursday morning, November 20, at 10:30 o'clock at the Women's Club auditorium. An informal talk on Bach and Handel will be presented, and an addition to the morning program will be a series of Bach and Handel songs sung by Miss Riley, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Chalmers. Miss Riley sings with ease and her voice will undoubtedly be most effective in the interpretation of the works of these two composers.

Special attention was called to the pilgrimage to the Bok Singing Tower in late December, sponsored by a group of music lovers in Atlanta, Mrs. Armand Carroll is in charge of plans for the pilgrimage and asks that those desiring further information regarding same will communicate with her.

Mrs. J. H. Jordan entertained at a bridge-tee at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Boettcher, bride-elect, of November. Those invited were Mesdames W. W. Braswell, Edward Moody, J. E. Johnson, C. W. Fowler, Jordan and Misses Rachel Fowler, Kathryn Fowler, Henrietta Boettcher.

Miss Boettcher Is Honored.

Mrs. J. H. Jordan entertained at a bridge-tee at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Boettcher, bride-elect, of November. Those invited were Mesdames W. W. Braswell, Edward Moody, J. E. Johnson, C. W. Fowler, Jordan and Misses Rachel Fowler, Kathryn Fowler, Henrietta Boettcher.

Martha Brown Church Observes Prayer Week

The week of prayer of Martha Brown Memorial church, in East Atlanta, was observed last Monday in the church auditorium and was opened with an appropriate song, followed by a reading, "Solomon's Prayer," by Mrs. Carl Johnson, who presided at the meeting.

Mrs. J. G. Logan told of the value and meaning of prayer. Mrs. Carl Johnson gave a sketch of Martin Luther's prayer. Luncheon was served by Mrs. G. H. Waggoner and an appointed committee, and a missionary playlet was presented by Mrs. George Lyle.

Mrs. P. V. Netherland was hostess to her bridge club at her home on Glenwood avenue Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. S. Williams and Mrs. E. H. Netherland were visiting guests.

Miss Hazel Hollingsworth entertained the Alpha Beta Kappa Society at their regular business meeting Tuesday evening at her home on Moreland avenue. The business session of the guests enjoyed a game of cards.

Mrs. Jim Pefinis entertained a party on a week-end trip at Crystal Lake, at which the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Sherrill and Mr. Pefinis, Misses Evelyn Shaw, Elaine Jones, Margaret Pefinis, Clarence Pitts, Roy Hudson, Pete Pefinis, Harry Pefinis, Hoke Smith and Pete Kucconia.

Mrs. E. F. Fincher entertained the Perennial Garden Club, of which she is an active member, at her home on Flat Shoals avenue Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Jachman, chairman, presided. The hostess presented her with the fall flowers from her garden and those of her guest members, which consisted of chrysanthemums and roses. Those present were Mrs. Bachman, Miss Mae Hudson, Mesdames A. B. Huck, C. D. Lyons, L. R. Adams, E. F. Williams, W. B. Spann, G. H. Nass, J. K. Hepp, S. A. Farrar, T. J. Arnold and others. Mrs. Fincher was awarded the attendance prize of amaryllis bulbs by Mrs. Lyons.

Miss Hannah Sterne Is Feted Debutante. Miss Hannah Sterne, the popular president of the Debutante Club, was honor guest at the tea at which Mrs. Edward Merritt entertained yesterday evening at her home on Rock Springs road, in Morningside.

The tea table, overlaid with a cloth of imported lace, held in the center a low silver bowl filled with yellow rosebuds. Other appointments of the table featured the yellow color motif.

Assisting in receiving the guests were Mesdames J. J. Merritt, A. H. Sterne, Ingram Dickinson, Joseph Walker and Miss Evelyn Sheffield. Invited to meet the lovely debutante were 100 members of the younger society contingent.

National Capital Belle Visits In Atlanta

Miss Eugenia Freyer, daughter of Captain Frank Freyer and Mrs. Freyer of Washington, D. C., is the guest of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McNeil, at their home on Twenty-eighth street. Miss Freyer was numbered among the popular visiting belles attending the debut ball of Miss Carolyn Paullin, given last evening at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Miss Freyer will return early next week to continue her visit to Mr. and Mrs. McNeil and will be honor guest in a number of social gatherings being planned in her honor. Before returning to the national capital Miss Freyer will visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan McNeil, at their home in Marietta.

Emory Teachers Honored at Dinner.

Professor and Mrs. William S. Nelms were hosts last evening at dinner at their home on Wilton drive, honoring the teaching staff of the physics department of Emory University. The home was attractively decorated with autumn leaves and colorful fall flowers, and the color scheme of the dining table was carried out in c and gold. The place cards and no-cities were of Thanksgiving turkeys.

Covers were placed for Dr. J. Harris Parks, Thomas A. Mitchell, S. B. Lawrence, H. W. Peavy, R. B. Squires, I. J. Glazner and E. Herbin Turner. Professor and Mrs. Nelms were assisted by Mrs. S. Trimble Mitchell and Miss Margaret Kittles, of Valonia, Ga.

Mrs. Braswell Honors Members of Club.

Forget-Me-Not Club was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. R. W. Braswell at her home on Lakewood avenue last Tuesday. The president, Mrs. C. M. Kimbrell, presided. Mrs. H. C. Buchanan was winner of the guess box. Mrs. C. E. Sams donated woolen blocks to be made into a quilt and each guest will make an attractive quilt to be given to charity. Those present were Mesdames C. M. Kimbrell, Harold Newcomer, H. C. Buchanan, Elmo Moore, R. T. Kingston, F. F. Whitney, Edgar Davis, R. W. Braswell, R. F. Knox, A. T. Owens, W. E. Howell, A. S. Stallings, C. E. Sams, W. J. ## Walker-Roberts Wedding Is Beautiful Home Event

Of interest throughout Georgia was the marriage of Miss Lois Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millie Walker, of College Park, Ga., to H. A. Roberts, solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey D. Walker, on Stewart avenue, with Rev. J. F. Aldred performing the ceremony in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. The altar in the living room, before which the marriage vows were taken, presented a scene of rich beauty with its massive arrangement of palms and ferns, in front of which stood pedestals filled with white chrysanthemums with alternating seven-branched candelabra holding white burning tapers on either side. Prior to the ceremony, Henry Mullins sang "At Dawning" and "The Heart of Gold," accompanied by Mrs. Henry Mullins at the piano. The wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. Mullins, announced the approach of the bride. During the ceremony, "To a Wild Rose" was rendered.

First to enter were the groomsmen, Shackle Moore and Willie Hogan. They were followed by the bridesmaid, Miss Edna Hurdnett. She was wearing a gown of white satin, with a wide white ribbon to match her gown. Her slipper was white, and she carried an armful of large white chrysanthemums tied with wide ribbon to match her gown. Next to enter was the matron of honor, Mrs. Aubrey D. Walker, who wore a gown of yellow satin with the "V" neckline in front and back draped in graceful fold mode and circular skirt falling to the floor. Her slipper was of white, and she carried an armful of large white chrysanthemums tied with wide ribbon to match her gown.

Miss Kathleen Pirkle Weds Ralph E. Weeks At Home Ceremony

A wedding characterized by quiet simplicity was solemnized last evening when Miss Kathleen Pirkle became the bride of Ralph Eugene Weeks, of Atlanta, formerly of White Pond, S. C., at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, on Boulevard drive.

Prior to the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Fred Glisson, of the Inman Park Methodist church, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Morris Styron. The chorus from "Lohengrin" was used as a processional and "At Dawning" preceded the ceremony, which was performed in the living room before the wide window, where slender lighted tapers and tall floor baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and roses made an effective setting for the wedding party.

Miss Edith Lee Johnson, sister of the bride and maid of honor and only attendant of the bride, was gowning in a midnight blue chiffon with long straight lines, the skirt made ankle length and ornamented with three tiers of ruffles, while the bodice was close-fitting, blue French felt and she wore a corsage of Lady Hillington roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harry Johnson, who was met by the groom and his best man, Sam Griffin, and was especially lovely in her wedding gown of sea-blue blue flat crepe fashioned with a bodice of rose pink and a bolero jacket of blue. The skirt was long and straight, ornamented with a small ruffle, and her slipper was of blue and she wore an imported hat of blue cloth coat, collar and cufflet in clipped fur, was donned for traveling.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson entertained at an informal reception the members of the wedding party, Mrs. A. J. Murphy, sister of the bride, receiving with the host and hostess. The dining room was decorated with bowls of yellow and white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers were placed on mantels and tables. The bride's table was covered with a bowl of chrysanthemums and topped by a miniature bride and groom and encircled with yellow rose buds.

Mr. and Mrs. Weeks left for a wedding trip in South Carolina and upon their return will take possession of their apartment at 8 Prescott street.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE THING THAT HAPPENED.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A thing at first may be perplexing And end in being sadly vexing.

—Peter Rabbit.

There was nothing strange in the sudden disappearance of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. He is such a timid little fellow that he disappears at the slightest sound or movement. You see there are so many hungry folk looking for Whitefoot that he cannot afford to take any chances. So he is forever dodging out of sight when there is no need to dodge, simply because he is not sure. Peter Rabbit knew this and waited for him to return.

But suddenly something happened that put all thought of Whitefoot from Peter's mind. He heard a song, the same pretty little song that had so surprised and then puzzled him before, the dream songs, as his friends called it. You should have seen the sudden way in which Peter sat up, and the look of surprise and delight on his face. Eagerly he looked for the singer, but in vain. Not a bird was to be seen. Yet that that song came from the throat of a bird Peter hadn't the shadow of a doubt.

Once more he heard the little song. This time he was certain it came from a little tree back of the big old stump. Peter hurried around to the other side of the stump and eagerly looked for the singer. He could see all through that little tree. No one was there. He was sure of it. The little singer must have flown before he got where he could see. Anyway, this is what Peter thought.

"What are you looking for in that little tree?" asked the squeaky voice of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Peter turned to find Whitefoot peering down at him from the top of the old stump. "Oh, Whitefoot, did you hear it?" cried Peter eagerly.

"What?" asked Whitefoot.

"That song," replied Peter excitedly. "I heard it twice. Didn't you hear it?"

"It must have been while I was gone," said Whitefoot. "Where did it come from?"

"I thought it came from this little tree, but I couldn't be sure of it," replied Peter. "I hurried around here, but if the singer was here he had flown before I could get a glimpse of him. Of course, he may not have been here."

"It must have been while I was gone," said Whitefoot. "Where did it come from?"

"I thought it came from this little tree, but I couldn't be sure of it," replied Peter. "I hurried around here, but if the singer was here he had flown before I could get a glimpse of him. Of course, he may not have been here."

PEACE, QUIET REIGNS AFTER CUBAN RIOTS

Martial Law Expected To Be Lifted in Next Few Days.

HAVANA, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Cuba passed quietly its second day of martial law, decreed yesterday by President Machado after three days of rioting in the capital and at Santiago. Soldiers patrolled the streets, challenging all suspicious persons and breaking up any attempts at gatherings. The Cuban metropolis lost its deserted appearance and business was resumed in full.

The government announced tonight that reports of a larger death toll throughout the island since the trouble began were unfounded. A check showed that only

Hopeful and Desperate Jackets Face Quakers This Afternoon; Superior Reserve Strength Gives Purples Edge Over Smithies; Bulldogs and Greenies Fight To Stay in Conference Title Chase

ers, Vaze McWhorter, Red Maddox, Bobby Rose and Catfish Smith. The Georgia ends are considered the two best in the conference and the two guards are also strong. Tulane is conceded an edge at the tackle positions and at center. Football fans will hear and read plenty about these boys after the Red and Black battle with the powerful Greenies of Tulane.

Hopeful and Desperate Jackets Face Quakers Muddy Field and Rain Assured for Game at Philadelphia This Afternoon.

By Ed Danforth.
Sports Editor.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Georgia Tech's youthful, hopeful, desperate football team will wade into Franklin field tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock eastern time to engage the University of Pennsylvania eleven.

The word "wade" is used advisedly. It has been raining here for several days and nights and the weather forecast cheerfully promises more of the same for Saturday. A tarpaulin has been spread over the field for days, but no manufactured substance could keep the water off the sod.

So unless it turns cold and freezes everything solid, the Rambling Wrecks and the Quakers will don their mud cleats, and perhaps umbrellas, and go to it for the glory of their institutions.

This is to be the second game in history between the two. Thirteen years ago a University of Pennsylvania eleven came down to Atlanta as a sort of loving gesture to old John Heisman, a Penn alumnus.

There they encountered Everett Strupper, Joe Guyon, Bill Fincher and a few other eggs of that degree of hardness and were licked, 41 to 0, for their generosity.

"SQUARING" SLATED.
This game is mentioned because, frankly, the prospects are that Pennsylvania will square the series tomorrow, unless one of those things happens.

The Engineers are figuring how to bring such a miracle to pass. They are hungry to win a ball game. They are tired of playing a great game but trying or losing it by adverse breaks.

Say "breaks" to a Yellow Jacket now and he will glare. He says "Breaks, my foot! We have just been rotten; but we will get them this time." The boys are at a keen edge mentally to play their best. And the saying goes that anything is likely to happen in the rain.

BY EAR.
Tech will play Pennsylvania by ear. Rain this week in Atlanta prevented any scrimmages against Pennsylvania plays. The Engineers, who have had no actual contact with even the Grey Devil version.

No Tech action in history has gone into a major game without having scrimmaged against their formations. The outcome, even if disastrous, will prove interesting. Coach J. Lindwall-Wray's Quakers use a double wing back system, truly Warner in origin. A man usually is in motion on the snap. It is the same sort of attack that Yale tried to use against Georgia that time in Athens. However, Pennsylvania executes it much nearer than the Bulldogs did. Absolutely.

PUZZLE ON TAP.
They used it to score three touchdowns on Notre Dame last week and used it to beat Kansas and sundry others. The Yellow Jackets have seen

Jackets Get Long Ride, Give Guide Longer One

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—Those Rambling Wrecks lost this afternoon in the suburbs of Philadelphia and missed half an hour of practice. They came out of the Green Hill Farms hotel and piled into a bus. They told the driver to take them to the playing field of Friends' School. When the driver turned right at the gate a student manager insisted he should turn left. The driver did so and drove and drove and drove until the error was suspected.

They got their workout finally after a nice, long bus ride. But the bus ride is not nearly so long as the one the boys are giving the student manager now for getting crossed up. W. P. Hansen, former backfield coach at Tech, saw Coach Alexander today and gave him some valuable scouting information on Penn. Dr. J. K. Mathieson, former president of Tech and now head of Drexel Institute, was a caller and witnessed practice. Doug Wycoff and Ivan Williams, former Tech stars, now professional luminaries, also were visitors.

ARMY AND NAVY TO PLAY DEC. 13

Service Teams To Meet in New York for Charity.

By Sam Bledsoe.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Unemployment has brought about an Army-Navy football game after generals, admirals, congressmen and civilians failed.

The service eleven will meet in New York on December 13 for the first time since 1927 and the receipts, expected to be more than $500,000, will go to help those out of work. Major General William R. Smith, superintendent at West Point, announced today the Navy's proposal for the game had been accepted and immediately afterwards Major Philip Fleming, Army's graduate manager of athletics, left for Washington by airplane to arrange details.

He landed at Philadelphia because of murky weather and probably will confer with Navy Academy officials at Baltimore tomorrow. The Navy is playing Southern Methodist University there.

The field for the game, the price to be charged for tickets and even the date itself are tentative. The tackling in an Army-Navy game is always jarring and Secretary Hurley said today he disliked the idea of the boys tumbling about on a frozen field. He added he hoped that Navy would get it possible to cancel its game on December 6 with the University of Pennsylvania and play the Army instead.

The details, however, are incidental. The game is on and tradition and its setting make it probably the brightest spot of the autumn football season.

The Army rules the Navy goat, the cadets in gray, the midshipmen in blue and the crowd as thick with celebrities and dignitaries as raising in a cake provide the atmosphere for the game, always hard and exciting.

The news of the game probably aroused most interest in the war and navy departments than any since the armistice. Secretary Adams and Secretary Hurley were both represented in a cake "very much pleased." They intend to see the game.

Annapolis has favored the idea almost since it was first proposed that the teams meet to help the unemployed. "Five dollars a game" is the first. Officials there felt it would be too hard on the players but reflection brought a gradual change in attitude.

The Yankee stadium in New York is favored for the game. Studded with temporary seats, it will seat 80,000. Five dollars a game has been about the top price for eastern football classics. Unofficial proposals have been made that box seats for the contest be sold at $1,000 each.

A by-product of the game will be the renewal of pressure on Capitol Hill for tickets. Constituents made such a demand on congressmen for tickets to the service classic in the past that some of the senators and representatives were relieved when the Army and Navy disagreed.

The Army, on form, should win this year. The Navy is having a bad season. It was beaten by Duke, Notre Dame and Ohio State. The Army has not lost a game, though it tied with Yale, 7-7. It has been proven, however, that past performances are unimportant in an Army-Navy game.

Army beat the Navy, 14 to 0, when they last met. "Light-horse" Harry Wilson and Christian Keener Cagle broke loose at crucial moments. Seventy-six thousand sat in the stands.

Relations between the two were severed when the Navy sought to have the Army adopt the three-year eligibility rule. The Army refused. The merits of the controversy have caused as much talk since as a senate filibuster.

TARBELLS OFF.

CHATEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—After a light workout, the University of North Carolina Tarheels left by train this afternoon for Concord, N. C., where they will spend the night. Tomorrow morning they will move on to Davidson for a clash with the Wildcats of Davidson College. The Collingmen were all reported in condition for the contest.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 14.—Two of Georgia Tech's greatest athletes will view the game at Franklin field tomorrow from adjacent seats.

One is Stumpy Thomason, the halfback. The other is Bobby Jones, the golfer.

Stumpy is playing professional football for a Brooklyn team and is the idol of the fans. He has been really doing his old-time galloping behind the sort of interference the pros put up.

Bobby Jones has been in New York for several days with Chip Robert on legal business and will come in late tonight for the game.

Harvard, of course, claims Bobby by virtue of a degree in law, but by accent, sentiment and blood he is a Tech man.

THE OLD-FASHIONED MAN.

This trip revealed the old-fashioned man who has been lost for, these many years. Dr. D. M. Smith, of the Tech faculty, is wearing overshoes. Furthermore, he forgets to take them off in the house.

PROFESSOR! HOW COULD YOU?

Dr. Smith tells this one, fresh from the campus. It seems that a young man suffering from amnesia was taken in at a Los Angeles hospital. He could not remember his name nor his home. All he could recall was that he had gone to Georgia Tech.

A kodak picture was taken of the boy and sent back to Tech. It was posted on the bulletin board with notations as to the nature of the case in hopes someone would recognize him.

A professor in chemistry studied the picture intently a long time and then wrote underneath, "I have a whole roomful of boys exactly like him."

SO! EVEN ENDS ARE SMART.

Notre Dame's rushing attack that scored 53 points on Penn last week before the Quakers could get their breath was vividly described to a party of Atlanta visitors by a Penn man today. It inspired one of us to tell the story of a Cumberland College end who was in that famous 222-10-0 game that one of John Heisman's teams played on Grant field.

The Yellow Jackets had found this end easy to take out of the play and had run over and past him for something like 140 points. The Cumberland end finally got tired of trying to fight off the Tech interference.

So for the last period, when a play started his way he turned and at full speed headed the Tech interference on down to the goal line.

THE SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

Burton, the colored water boy, who must be 60 years old by this time, rode up in style as first assistant to George, the porter on the Tech team car.

Burton is rigged out in an ultra collegiate suit with flappy pants and pleats at the belt. Mention was made of his snappy attire.

"Yes, suh, dis heah's a fancy suit. Hit's one er Mistah Mizell's dat he tuk ter de coast."

PREP COACHES HELP.

Southern football teams are leading in intersectional combat this season, and for a very good reason, according to Charley Morgan, of Macon and formerly of Tech.

Charley told me the other day that our teams were getting better because our high schools were having better coaching.

"I was at Cordele when their high school was playing Fitzgerald," he said. "Both teams were smartly coached. They had well organized offenses and blocked hard. They were neatly equipped and seemed to have plenty of substitutes on the bench. Ten years ago they would not have been even playing football; now the sport is intelligently directed and encouraged."

SMITHIES FACE PURPLE TODAY

Reserves Give Boys' High Edge Over Tech High in Annual Battle.

By Walter Wilkes.

A time-honored maxim of the gridiron states that a muddy field plays no favorites, and it is likely that Spiller field—where the Purple Huskies of Boys' High renew an ancient vendetta with their Tech High rivals at 2 o'clock this afternoon—will prove no exception to the general rule.

The heavy footing which will obtain at the staging of what is always considered the "hook" game of Atlanta's prep football season will tend to equalize the chances of the two teams to such an extent that breaks may well decide the issue. When and where, or in whose favor, those breaks may come none can tell in advance, but they are pretty certain to arrive in any game where a slippery ball is involved.

Pre-game predictions, based on the showing of the rival eleven to date this season, have given Boys' High the edge, and this they unquestionably deserve. However, contests between these two are rather like Tech-Georgia and Vanderbilt-Tennessee affairs in that the dope is frequently upset and swayed all over the premises.

So much is borne out by the records, where game after game has been decided by a single scoring play—a field goal, point after touchdown, or the like. They are that close. And yet there has not been a tie in the series of 17 games. Of these the Smithies have won 12 games to the Purple's five, but only in 1924, when Stumpy Thomason and his running mates piled up a 60-0 score, have the victories of either side come easily.

LATE MARGIN.

In the past five years, since "Shorty" Doyle has had charge of the Boys' High football team, the Hurricane holds the edge with three triumphs to two for the Smithies.

An interesting phase of the battle this afternoon will be the clash between two powerful and experienced sets of forwards. The rival lines will be pretty much on a par, as far as the starting lineups are concerned, but when it comes to the question of reserves Boys' High must concede a margin which may well prove vital as the game wears on.

Coach Tolbert, of the Smithies, has suffered all season from the lack of capable replacements at tackles and guards, while Coach Doyle has been able to make frequent substitutions in the line and in his backfield—without weakening his team appreciably.

SUBS READY.

For example, the starting pair of wingmen for the Purple is expected to be Captain Katz and Levine. These boys are plenty good, but when they begin to tire a little under the swift pace that is sure to be set, Doyle can easily replace them with Nash and Jones, just about as effective a combination. The same applies to his starting tackles and guards. Tolbert, on the other hand, must stand or fall largely with the 11 boys who start.

Not only is a sparkling duel in prospect between the opposing forwards, but a backfield battle that promises plenty of speed and action—even on a muddy field—is certain to take place. "Fug" Boyd is the big threat in the Tech High rear works, and the only one of the backfield left from last year's team. The Hurricane players will undoubtedly concentrate on stopping Boyd, but it is quite a task to halt such a tricky and hard-running ball carrier as "Fug" has shown himself to be.

And then, there is always the danger that if Doyle's charges confine their attention too closely to Boyd, Billy Street or Charlie Hurst may get away. Either of these boys is quite capable of doing that little thing on almost no provocation.

Boys' High has a wealth of good

Bulldogs, Wave Battle To Remain in Running

Worried at Varsity's Overconfidence, Mehre Plans To Start Second Team Today.

By Ralph McGill,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 14.—Georgia's undefeated football team meets the undefeated Tulane eleven here tomorrow afternoon to determine which team shall remain in the Southern conference race.

Georgia will be that team unless some unforeseen disaster should strike them. Red Leathers, the sterling red-headed guard, is out with a bad knee. The others are in good shape physically.

Coach Harry Mehre, following a workout this afternoon in the sultry heat and drizzling rain that one usually encounters in New Orleans, startled followers by announcing that practically a second team would start the game against the cocky Tulane eleven.

Mac Greenwood and Wellington Kelly are due to start at ends, with Ed Davis and Bobby Rose at the tackles. Jimmy Patterson and Tiger Bennett, the shock troop guards, are picked to start, and the old reliable "Demi-tasse" Tassapoulis will be passing them back from center.

Willie Sullivan, the east Tennesseean, is picked to open at quarter, with Johnny Davidson and Marion Dileens at the halfbacks. Lloyd Gilmore, the hard-hitting defensive fullback will start in Roberts' place.

This selection is probably the best defensive one that could have been picked. It lacks the offensive punch that the usual starters possess, but how it can back the boys up!

BULLDOGS BETTER.
Georgia undoubtedly has a football team superior to Tulane's. The Wave has lost its only intersectional game of the year, Northwestern winning with a lineup which contained largely second-stringers. Georgia, with few experienced substitutes, has had to string most of her regulars in against Yale, New York University and the strong conference foes, yet remains undefeated.

The Bulldogs are fagged, and think very little indeed of the Green Wave. The Green's running attack was very little impressive in the Georgia Tech game, and the Georgians were not depressed at all by the score.

All this has not done the Georgia regulars any good. It may explain why Coach Harry Mehre is putting in his second team. The reserves are yawning, and a yawning football team is always in danger, even though it is normally superior.

COACH MEHRE'S NERVOUS.
Coach Mehre's nerves are sticking out of his clothes. What with worrying about his line-up and with alumni hanging on his neck seeking passes for themselves and the girl friends, the Georgia coach is growing green about the gills and may be in the foolish factory before the game Saturday. All the confidence of the boys who fill up his room with cigaret smoke and conversation fails to impress him.

I keep thinking I am in Savannah, and that it is just before the final whistle of that Florida game," he said.

The workout Friday was a very difficult one. Rain has fallen here all week, and poured down all Friday

G. M. A. Arranges Post-Season Game

PONCE DE LEON HIGH TO MEET ATLANTA TEAM

Colonel Woodward Also Seeks Game To Be Staged in Havana.

Colonel H. C. Woodward, president of the Georgia Military Academy, Friday wired advices from Miami, Fla., to the effect that G. M. A.'s football team will play at least one and possibly two post-season games late in December.

Negotiations have practically been completed with the Ponce de Leon High eleven, of Coral Gables, for a game on December 20 in Miami and efforts are being made to arrange a game in Havana, Cuba, later in the month.

After spending several days in Miami Colonel Woodward will journey to Cuba, where he expects to close a contract for a football game during the last week in December.

Should the Cuban game materialize, it is likely that Coach Sam Burbage will take his basketball team on the trip to play a picked team in Cuba.

Last year G. M. A. University basketball and football games with Cuban teams in Atlanta on the Cuban "good-will" tour. The football game, played at night on Grant field, was the first clash under the lights staged in Georgia.

G. M. A. is still in the running for the city and state football titles. They have a tie game with Tech High on their record and one defeat at the hands of the Navy Pies, in Annapolis. The remaining margin have been won by comfortable margins.

The Cadets have an open date on their schedule for this week, but Coach Pudget has been working hard for the game Friday, November 21, against Boys' High. Should the Hurricane win from Tech High this afternoon at Spiller's, then next week's game will be for the city title and the winner will certainly be picked to play in the play-off for the northern division title of the G. M. A. A.

THE RAJA'S SALARY.

The Cubs will pay Rogers Hornsby $10,000 to manage the club, the salary Joe McCarthy gets with the Yanks.

Rain Postpones Polo Title Game

When the heavens continued to weep relentlessly Friday afternoon, the polo match between the Fort McPherson and Governor's Horse Guard polo teams, who have been busy all week polishing their mallets and wistfully observing the weather, simply gave up.

As a result, the second match for the city championship, scheduled to be played Sunday afternoon over the polo parade ground, has been deferred a week. Recent rains have made almost a quagmire of the polo field, and much as the polo players and their chukkers they can't be expected to risk a permanent broken neck for a temporary pleasure.

The Fort team, therefore, clings to its margin of one victory over the doughty Guardsmen, having won the first, last and only contest played to date by a 6-5 score.

CLARK INVADES TUSKEGEE LAIR

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Nov. 14.—Clark University will furnish the opposition for the Tuskegee Tigers in their fifth colored conference start on Saturday. The game will be played under the Alumni field here.

With an array of splendid talent functioning in the line and in the backfield, the well-drilled Panthers stand an excellent chance to defeat the Tigers in the game Saturday, and that the march the cadets endeavor toward another conference crown.

The heavy Panther line, with Battle, left tackle; Robinson, center; James, right guard; and Calhoun, right tackle, playing the leading roles is one of the strongest in the conference. Baker, Roberts and McPherson, who hold backfield berths, are fast, smart and shifty and should give the Tigers one of their hardest battles. The clash will be a spectacular fighting at the finish as there will be seen during the opening of hostilities.

The Panthers reached Tuskegee early Friday morning. They worked out in the bowl twice Friday and again Saturday morning.

backs to throw into the fray, but it is likely that the major share of the chores behind the line will fall to Luke Mizell, Leek Donahue and Brumbaugh. This trio has shown with consistent brilliance all season. All of them are dangerous over the offense, and Mizell—a brother of the famous Tech halfback of not so long ago—has been a powerful factor on defense with his deadly tackling and intuitive ability to size up the plays of the opposition.

It is quite possible that, if the Smiths find themselves unable to gain satisfactorily on the offense, they will come more and more to rely upon the fine punting of "Hoos" Gibson. The "Hoos" High back in his own territory. The kicking game isn't a bad game to play against a rival of equal or superior strength, especially on a wet field.

Whatever happens, and however drab the setting from a meteorological standpoint may be, the blue flame of excitement is bound to dart up and down on Spiller field this afternoon.

It always does when Boys' High and Tech High come together to settle their annual football difference.

BABY PETRELS DOWN BOWDON ELEVEN, 14 TO 0

Oglethorpe Freshmen
Hammer Out Decision
in Mud.

Playing their best game of the season in mud ankle deep and with a steady rain falling, the Oglethorpe freshmen defeated the highly-touted Bowdon College eleven, 14 to 0, Friday afternoon at Hernando field. The Baby Petrels' margin of victory was clean-cut and left no doubt as to their superiority, in wet weather at least, over the invaders.

Bowdon was handicapped in that the heavy, slushy gridiron cut the strength of their regularly fast offense. On the other hand, it was just the sort of setting in which the freshmen are at their best. They have had little chance to develop a tricky offensive this season because of having to play on the defensive most of the time against the varsity, but they have plenty of power.

Jeff (Daddy) Bolden, powerhouse fullback, ploughed through the Bowdon line for a total of 37 yards from scrimmage, and he scored the first of two touchdowns made when he plunged through the line and ran 15 yards to cross the goal in the third quarter. The other touchdown was scored by the Moss, shifty halfback, who took a lateral pass from Flint late in the fourth quarter and raced 25 yards around.

The Baby Petrels opened the scoring in the opening period when Dave Barrow, hard-fighting tackle, downing Bowdon quarterback, behind his own goal line for a safety.

Tennessee's Bank Affairs Present Steadier Aspect

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Following close upon the closing of three banks in Tennessee within a week, an ever-changing line of people flowed in and out of the Tennessee-Heritage National bank today, and their checks on both demand and saving deposits were honored as they were presented.

While E. A. Lindsey, president, said he was prepared to keep open longer, the bank closed at 2 p. m. under Clearing House rules. Mr. Lindsey, who was unable tonight to estimate the amount of withdrawals, said the bank would be open for business as usual at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Charles C. Gilbert, a director, reported that a negro who had drawn out his account was held up and robbed a short time later. A woman also was reported to have lost $150 shortly after taking it from the bank.

A federal receiver, Lee Douglas, took over the affairs of Caldwell & Co., nationally-known banking house, and the superintendent of banks assumed charge of the Liberty Bank & Trust Co., a state institution, whose directors decided last night to liquidate.

With funds of the state estimated by officials to total around $5,500,000 on deposit in the three banks that have closed within the last week, the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. of New York, the state's fiscal agent, wired Governor Henry H. Horton that it was ready to place a $5,000,000 credit at the state's disposal.

Governor Horton said at Columbia where he was attending bridge dedication ceremonies, that he would await a meeting of the funding board tomorrow before deciding on the offer.

The Bank of Tennessee, fiscal agent and subsidiary of Caldwell & Co., went into receivership last Friday. Tuesday night the closing was announced of the Holston-Union National bank at Knoxville, and last night the Liberty Bank & Trust Company here announced its decision to close.

At Tenoir City today, M. G. Goodwin, state representative-elect, issued a statement advocating "a thorough and sweeping investigation of the financial conditions of some of our state favored banks."

With the appointment of a receiver for Caldwell & Company, the committee of bankers that has been handling that concern's affairs since November 4, announced its retirement.

The committee's statement said that "according to the books of the institution, it is solvent," and added: "Some of its assets, however, are of a nature that the committee could not arrive at their value without investigations that would require longer time than they felt they had a right to ask creditors to wait."

$32,000,000 Merger.

Merger of the East Tennessee National bank, City National Bank, and East Tennessee Savings bank, all of Knoxville, into an institution to be known as the East Tennessee National bank, decided upon early today, means that "banking troubles in Knoxville have ended," it was stated by S. Carter, president of the combined institution. With resources estimated at $32,000,000 and the last statements showing deposits totaling more than $26,000,000, Mr. Carter said the merged bank was one of the largest in the state.

The Knoxville merger followed by two days the alliance of the Fourth and First National bank and the American National bank, Nashville's two largest banking institutions, which, with their respective trust companies, combine assets of approximately $86,000,000.

With the addition of the Fourth and First National bank and the Nashville Trust Company, the American banks group, to which the American National bank and American Trust Company already belonged, has under its control four institutions in Nashville operating 17 branches and 18 affiliated institutions, some with branches, in Tennessee.

U. S. Federal Reserve Policy—Its Relation To Price Levels

John F. Sinclair has prepared a special series of six articles for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance discussing the business depression, its protracted continuance and methods by which it might have been avoided or might be brought to an end. The third of these articles appears below. Watch Sunday's Constitution for the fourth.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.
(Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Critics who feel that inflation would occur if federal reserve banks purchased government securities in the ten years from July, 1920, to July, 1930, while gold in the federal reserve system increased by $1,654,000,000, commodity prices were not inflated.

Only in the stock market did inflation occur. Elsewhere, particularly in commodity prices, the reserve policy had the effect of sterilizing the gold increase. Otherwise a very large inflation would have come.

It is Macaulay's theory that the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, whose views are eagerly sought in the business world, said recently on this subject:

"Had there not been careful and effective control this flood of gold would have caused a huge inflation of prices, and the world would have produced many evils. The federal reserve authorities, however, so regulated matters that no inflation occurred and the price level continued fairly even throughout the entire period, actually declining slightly."

MORTUARY

D. M. WILLIAMS. Mrs. Doris N. Williams, 43, who died Friday morning at her home on High Street, will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with the Rev. A. D. Moncrief, Jr., officiating. Interment will be in Walnut Valley.

Judgments Affirmed.

Cain vs. Varnadore, from Appellate superior court. Thomas H. J. Lawrence, for plaintiff in error. J. P. High, for defendant.

Collier vs. Collier, warden: from Fulton superior court. Judge Penney. Clara Brantley, for plaintiff. John A. Boykin, solicitor-general. John S. McClellan, solicitor. J. W. LeVaux, for defendant.

Spikes et al. vs. Walder: from Ben Hill superior court—Judge E. E. McDonald & McDonald, for plaintiff in error. Hal Lawson, for defendant.

Thurmond vs. Sovereign Camp Woodmen of the World, Inc.: from Ben Hill superior court—Judge Wood. A. B. Tolson, for plaintiff. J. P. Brooke, contra.

George C. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, whose views are eagerly sought in the business world, said recently on this subject:

"Had there not been careful and effective control this flood of gold would have caused a huge inflation of prices, and the world would have produced many evils. The federal reserve authorities, however, so regulated matters that no inflation occurred and the price level continued fairly even throughout the entire period, actually declining slightly."

As the consignments of gold reached the commercial banks they were deposited to the credit of those banks with the federal reserve banks, and were used at first to pay off completely the obligations with the federal reserve system; but as gold continued to come in the federal reserve directors provided an outlet for the investment of these gold deposits by selling on the open market government bonds of sufficient amount to absorb these extra credits, thus replacing the gold by bonds.

An increase in circulation was thus prevented.

Hence this new gold was not permitted to become an additional outstanding currency. The federal reserve system saw to that, and the efforts made not only outside but inside the federal reserve system were along the line of sterilization of the new gold import, to provide directly against inflation.

Says Mr. Macaulay further: "Few Americans realize how much they owe to the federal reserve authorities for their regulation of commodity prices during that dangerous time."

Now the shoe is on the other foot. What now? Should not the federal reserve policy be adopted by the federal reserve system? There are those who argue that the policy advocated would principally have had the result of forcing a large export of gold from the United States, thus making the new policy ineffective.

This is a technical question. It is one with two sides, and must be carefully analyzed by those familiar with foreign exchange.

I took this particular problem to one of the leading foreign exchange experts on the American continent, who has had 25 years experience dealing directly with the matter of gold import and export and international balances.

I asked whether had the federal reserve system brought government bonds to take the place of the decreasing money outstanding, export of gold from the United States would have resulted, thus making such a movement ineffective.

He replied that he did not believe gold would have left the country in any large volume. His explanation is included in this summary: "Any movement of gold to that country since the war has been stimulated by an attempt to place its banking situation on something approaching a normal basis. All the gold that has gone to Germany has moved against normal trends. Therefore it can be held without necessity of much argument that Germany would not have received any additional gold released by the United States."

Again, it is enormously more important for Germany to prevent falling prices than it is for England. It does not increase the demand for payments to be made by Great Britain to the United States, for example, but on balance Great Britain still has millions of pounds of securities owing to her from abroad, and what she loses on one hand she more than makes up on the other. Germany has no important foreign credits to offset reparations.

When Sir Josiah Stamp spoke before the stable money association in New York he pointed out that, due to the general decline in prices, the burden of the Young plan upon the economic life of Germany was actually heavier than the burden of the Dawes plan at the time it was put into force.

Since the Stamp speech Germany's position has become more acute, and it is evidence that Germany is gradually being convinced the burden is more than she can bear. The statements along this line by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the reichsbank, now in the United States, are well known.

Actually the weight of the German debt on a per capita basis of ability to pay is exceeded by that of many other countries. German taxation is much lower per capita than Britain's. The difference is that Germany's liquid capital was destroyed during the war, and has not been rehabilitated. She does not have adequate reserve funds to meet extraordinary

GOOD PROGRESS MADE BY A. M. E. CONFERENCE

The Atlanta conference of the A. M. E. church, meeting in its third day's session in St. Philip's church, Selman and Wylie streets, with Bishop W. A. F. Robinson, president, today maintained its headway in dispatching the business of the conference which closes Sunday night.

The conference institute was conducted by President W. A. Fountain. Dismissed from second year class, Revs. H. J. Bearden, Troy Phillips and A. L. Brewster were presented to the conference for deacon orders. For elders' orders, Revs. W. J. Davis and L. W. Lane were presented. The undergraduates who are filling Atlanta charges and those serving charges contiguous to Atlanta made their school or leave Atlanta, Bishop Fountain said.

Rev. R. R. Robinson, a pioneer minister of this conference, by his request was superannuated.

Rev. H. W. Jamison, D. D., of the Illinois conference, and Dr. D. H. Stanton, of the American Bible Society, New York, addressed the conference in behalf of their work.

The Atlanta conference of 1931 will be held at Flipper Temple, Atlanta, it was decided.

The educational anniversary Friday night, despite the weather conditions, was well attended. Bishop Fountain, chancellor, presided and made the principal address. He was followed by Bishop Gregg, Dean Giles and President W. A. Fountain, Jr.

President B. R. Holmes, of the Holmes Institute, Atlanta, president of the leading pastors of the conference, made complete report to the meet Friday.

Radio Law Defendant Is Freed by Recorder

The sensitive ear of Detective T. O. Sturdivant which last week caused him to prefer charges against Joe Eplan, Peachtree street auctioneer, under provisions of the new anti-noise ordinance, Friday heard Recorder A. W. Callaway dismiss the case when no witness except the detective appeared against the defendant.

Sturdivant told Recorder Callaway that he gave Eplan a copy of charges because shop owners on Peachtree street had complained that a loud-speaker was conveying the voice of the auctioneer to the sidewalk bothered them. Eplan maintained that the section of Peachtree where his store is located is so noisy that his loud-speaker couldn't possibly be offensive. His reasoning, coupled with the absence of other complainants, won.
